WALNUT HILLS
Cincinnati, Ohio
Vol. 79
1981

I left my happy home to see what I could find out. I left my folks and friends with the aim to clear my mind. I hit the rowdy road, and many kinds I met there, many stories told me of the way to get there. So, on and on I go, the seconds tick the time out. There's so much left to know and I'm on the road to find out. In the end I'll know, but on the way I'll wonder, through descending snow, and through the frost and thunder. I listen to the wind come howl, telling me I have to hurry. I listen to the robin's song saying not to worry. Then, I found myself alone, hoping that someone would miss me. Thinking about my home. But sometimes you have to moan when nothing seems to suit you. Nevertheless you know you're locked to the future. Then I found my head one day when I wasn't even trying. Here I have to say, 'cause there is no use in lying, the answer lies within.

To Calvin
I know you had a lot of fun with Fred like the rest of us. I hope your next year will be just as fun for you
Have a nice Summer

Calvin
You say I have been a grouch and I became nice. Well then while I was becoming nice you were becoming nasty. You were becoming all year long. You picked on me and picky picky picky. You know what I'm going to do this summer? I'm going to miss your pickiness.

Walnut Hills has given us the background that we will rely upon in the future. As we leave we realize that, although we may never experience many of our high school friends and aspirations again, these days at Walnut Hills will always be with us in some way. The educational opportunities offered at Walnut have benefited all of us. More than this, however, we have gained from the diversity of people to which all Walnut Hills students are exposed. One can not leave without having known a life different to one's own. Walnut Hills has improved our minds by making us more open to new ideas and more tolerant of change. Our days at Walnut can not be replaced; they will be remembered and cherished by all.

Calvin,

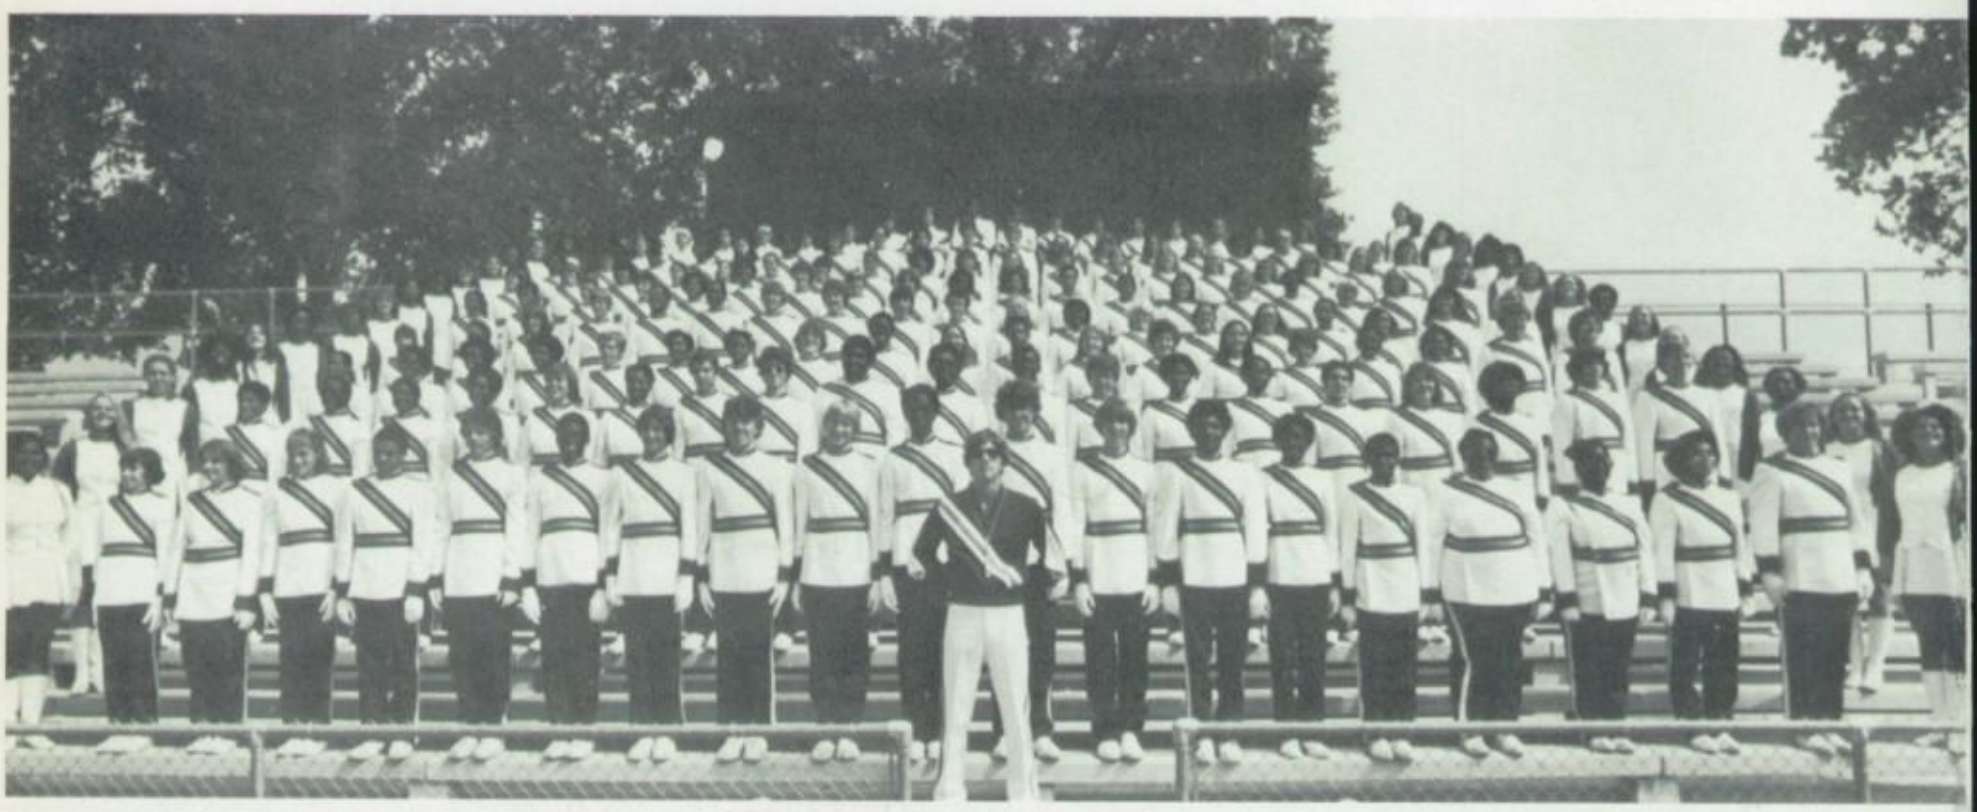
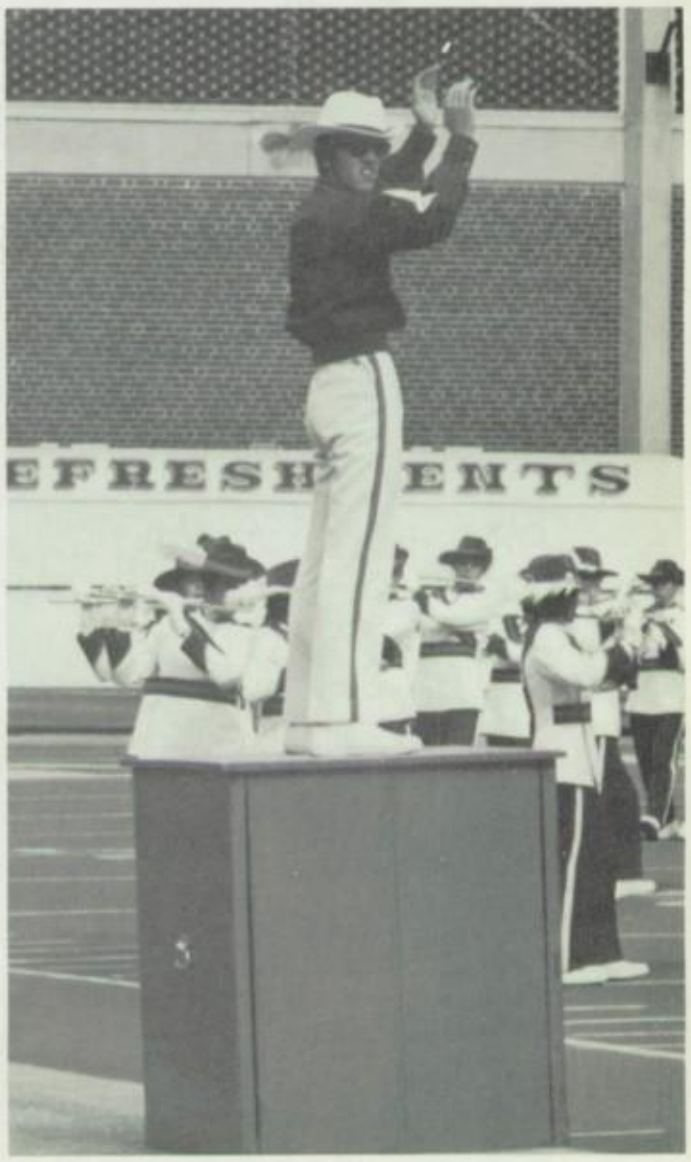
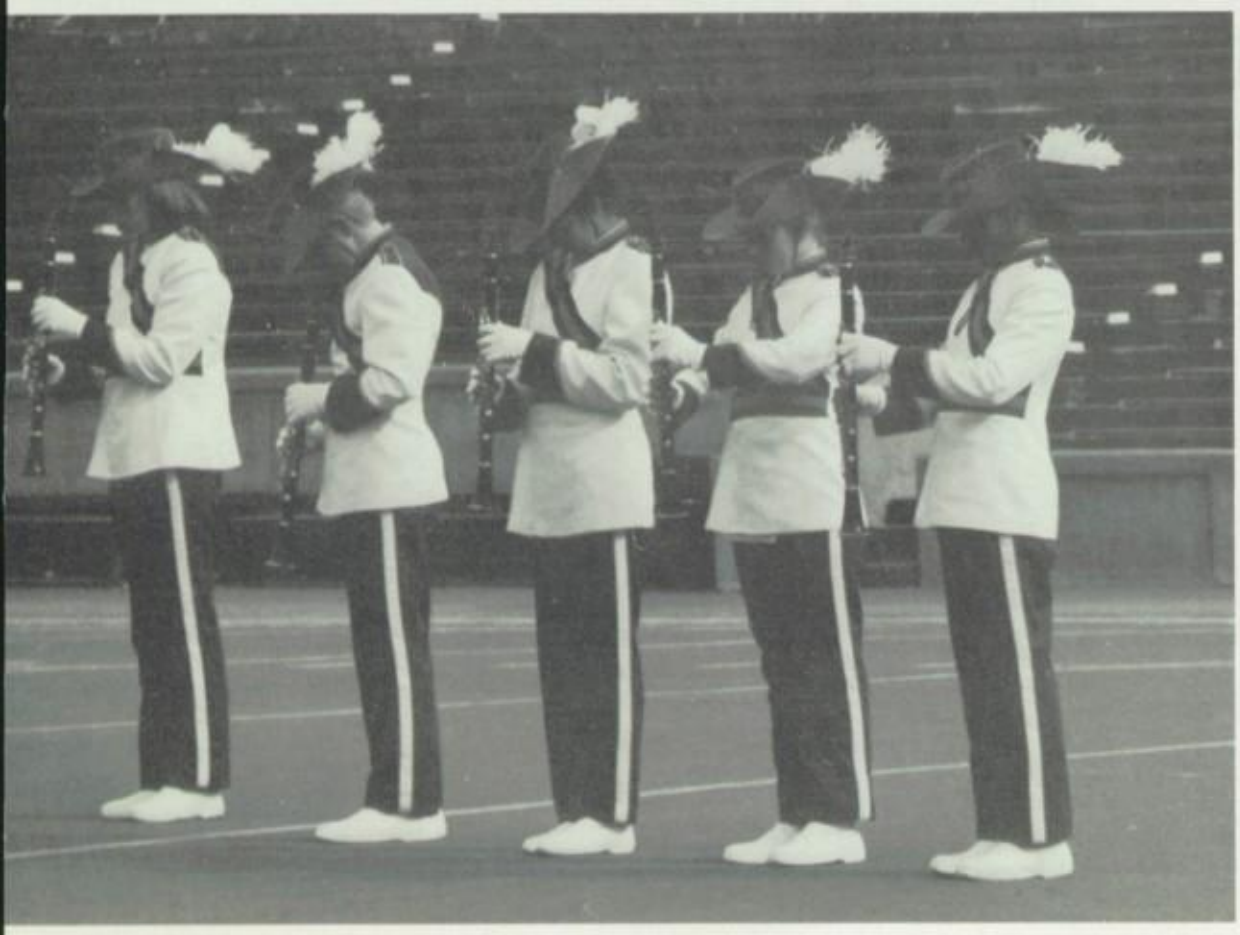
MARCHING BAND AND DRILL TEAM



Walnut Hills Marching Band, under the expert direction of Mr. Ken Welsh, had its ups and downs this year. The controversial disqualification of the band at the annual U.C. music bowl is still being debated and left all with feelings of outrage, confusion, and possible injustice. The band did, however, place both at Fairborn and at Edgewood, with an impressive third at the latter. The band took part in U.C.'s Homecoming and the high point of the season was the performance at Riverfront stadium in the Bengals /Vikings football game. Walnut Hills will miss its departing senior band members, but, the future looks bright for the 1982 Marching Band and all look forward to its first performance.





Drill Team

You march and kick and dance and turn,
You wave the flags, and as you learn,
The lines improve, the grace appears,
In spite of all the captains' fears.

A hat is dropped, it's no big deal,
The show's not stopped,
But still you feel,
Illusive perfection: slowly arrives,
The goal for which the Drill Team strives.

This show is dedicated to Mr. Bibee and Mr. McCracken who gave us so much.

"P-Nuts 1980 is not just "another P-Nuts"... it is a production. Like all true productions it has been "loved into being"... it has been truly an act of love on all of our parts. P-Nuts 1980 is the final product of A LOT of sacrifice, many many well intentioned, if bizarre, ideas — hours and hours and hours of work, countless meetings, several all-night work sessions, endless disagreements, tons of laughter, miles of smiles, and all too many uncontrollable circumstances. It has been a group effort, and although there were a few times when our individual expectations, and anticipations carried us in separate directions, it has been a "group dream". For all of us involved P-Nuts 1980 is truly a "dream come true."

STUDENT SUPPLY STORE

The student store workers are a small, devoted group who donate their lunch bells and early mornings to sell us the little necessities of academic life. They always seem to enjoy it, too. A cheerful person, with a mouthful of mints and/or lifesavers is sure to answer your question or request with a snappy reply, while arguing with someone else in the back.

For many years Chatterbox has been an integral part of Walnut Hills, keeping the students and faculty aware of what happens in their environment. This year, under the able direction of Allen Cohen, Diane Feldman, and Margaret Guentert, has been no exception. The Chatterbox team has been able to overcome the shortages of newspapers and an ineffective distribution system to provide excellent coverage of important and controversial events at Walnut Hills. Though C-box cannot provide news coverage comparable to that of T.V., radio, or REM, they have done a commendable job keeping the student body informed. P.S. Stay in the newspaper business, you guys sure can't play baseball — remember: "REM 9 C-BOX 2"

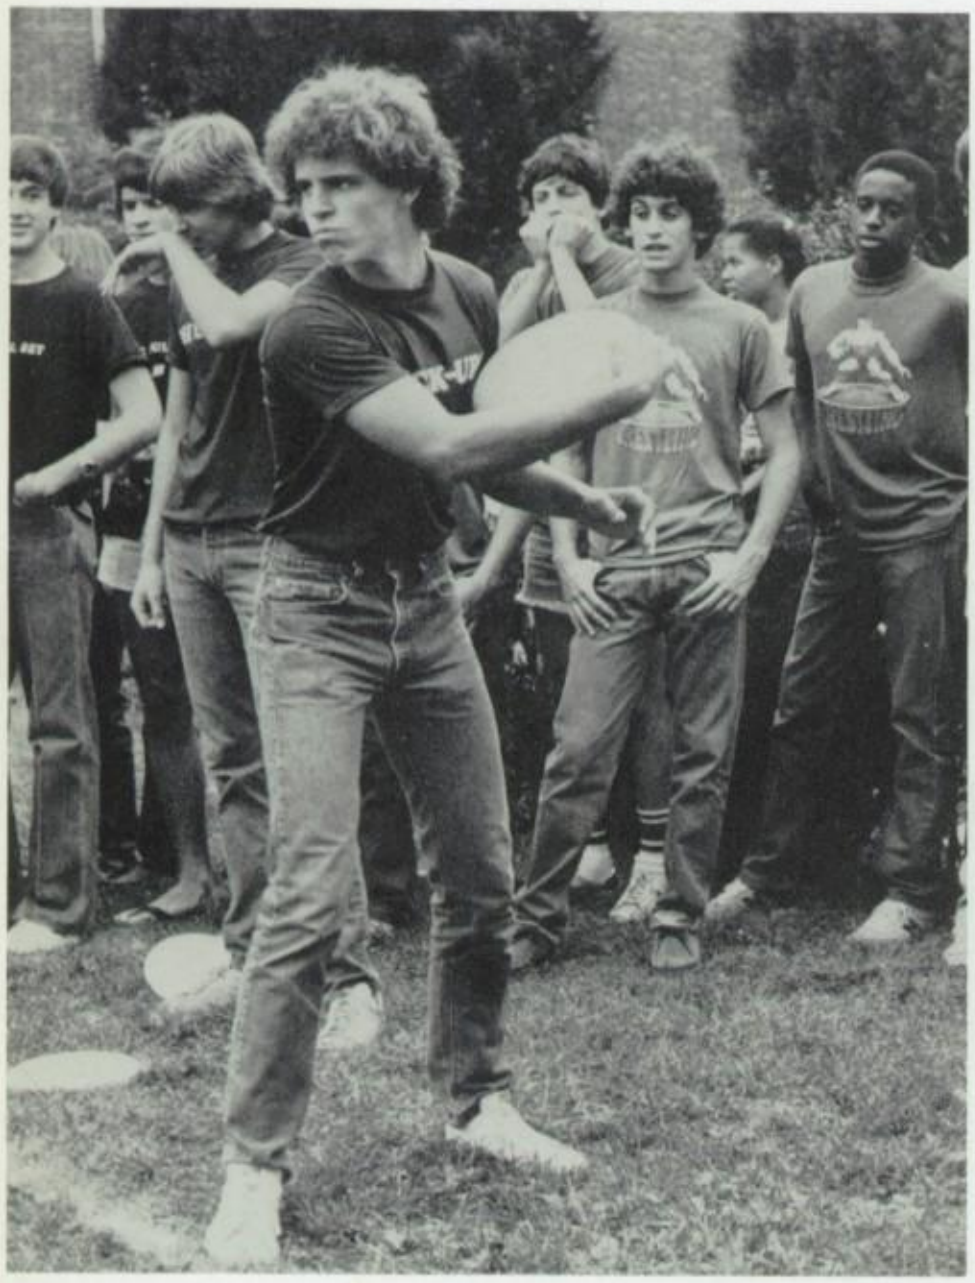
HOMECOMING



A time to be forgotten slowly (?)
Running backwards, crouching lowly,
in strange relays, 6 legged race,
fun and silly, change of pace,
Another factor came to aid:
the gala floats in the "parade"
Creativity did beget,
names like "bawbs" and "null set".
Eating bananas, did they "earl"?
Lunchtime's little social whirl.
After all the pseudo-fame,
W.O.W.! we even won the game!

After going through grueling tryouts and practices, this year's cheerleaders helped the Eagles in their winning season. Giving up their Friday evenings and Saturday mornings, the squads inspired the fans with their enthusiastic cheers and ritualistic dances. After all, anyone who would voluntarily kiss a disgusting, slobbering animal (not the football team — the pig) to raise money, must havė an incredible amount of school spirit and school pride — not to mention a strong stomach.

JUNIOR AND SENIOR CHOIR

ENSEMBLE

The Walnut Hills Ensemble, made up of 16 people (8 men, 8 women) participated in many activities this year. Their leader, Ben Basone, led them through the Christmas Concert, and caroling in Clifton. They had another chance to show off their voices in between acts of the Cincinnati Ballet's "Nutcracker," sang at the Spring Concert, and competed in state competition. Their year peaked at the performance at graduation.

"A fiddler on the roof, sounds crazy, no?" Not any more, as the cast and crew of the senior high's Musical production of "A Fiddler on the Roof" proved.

Vicky Welsh, a first year teacher at Walnut, directed the dramatic part of the production with the stamina and strength of a veteran. The choral director, Ben Basone, using his vast experience in the musical field lead the cast vocally through the gruelling 2½ months of rehearsal. The production and performances of "A Fiddler on the Roof" were definitely one of the finest at Walnut Hills, and will be remembered for a long time. The only proper way to end this is with "A blessing on your head, and Mazeltov."

HI-Y

Hi-Y is a mock government club. The ten members of the judicial branch are given a court case to research and defend. They hold a mock trial in Cincinnati and appeal the decision in the Supreme Court chambers in Columbus acting as both attorneys and judges. The ten legislative members write a bill and research it so they can defend it when it reaches the floor of the Senate or House of Representatives. After the lengthy preparation Columbus is enjoyed by all. Piling into the bus the morning after, all are besieged with weariness, but none have regrets.

HMUN

From December 3-7 ten participants traveled to Boston to the Harvard Model United Nations. Advised by teacher Roger Lerch, they were awarded many honors, including top delegation. The five days spent in Boston will never be forgotten; nor will the hundred-dollar lamp (broken and replaced). How could anyone forget the "smooth" plane ride or the wonderful atmosphere at a certain Italian restaurant? But as we reflect back, we remember the following: the first annual "Bill" Award and its lucky recipient. Fudge, the great Milk Raid, more fudge, the "Aramis" man, ECOSOC-D.B.Q.-SRI Lanka, and Ve-ri-tas.

CHESS CLUB

This year's Walnut Hills Chess Team remains one of the most successful teams in the school. Competing in the city, they won every event in which they participated and the league championship. Led by junior David Glueck, one of the best under-twenty-one players in the region, Walnut tied for first in the state. Under Glueck's leadership the team has made great advances in the last year and will be awesome next year. With a great pool of young talent, Walnut Hills chess has great potential for future years.

CONCERT BAND

Gold Band is a demanding organization; to play with this concert band one must first take a nerve-wracking audition and do well. Then, if you're lucky and win one of the precious few seats, there are the rigorous 7th bell practice sessions. This year the gold band traveled to Denver in May to compete. Even though the work was hard, the rewards were great and these musicians managed to have a good time.

THE VISIT

This years senior high drama production is The Visit, a modern translation of a German play, "Besuch der Alte Dame". The director is Mrs. Welsh and the assistant director is Don Wong. The old lady for whom the play is named, is a now wealthy former resident of the por town. She returns to seek revenge on the father of her illegitimate child and former lover by whom she was betrayed and abandoned. The woman offers the townspeople a fabulous sum of money in exchange for his death. The residents refuse, but attempt to impress the woman with many purchases in hopes that she will donate it out of the generosity of her heart. In the end, they are so far in debt from this extravagant spending that they must kill the man in order to get this blood money. The Visit, one of the finest productions of the Swiss playwright Friedrich Durrenmatt, continues the tradition of great dramatic productions at Walnut Hills with hours of hard work culminating in a successful performance.

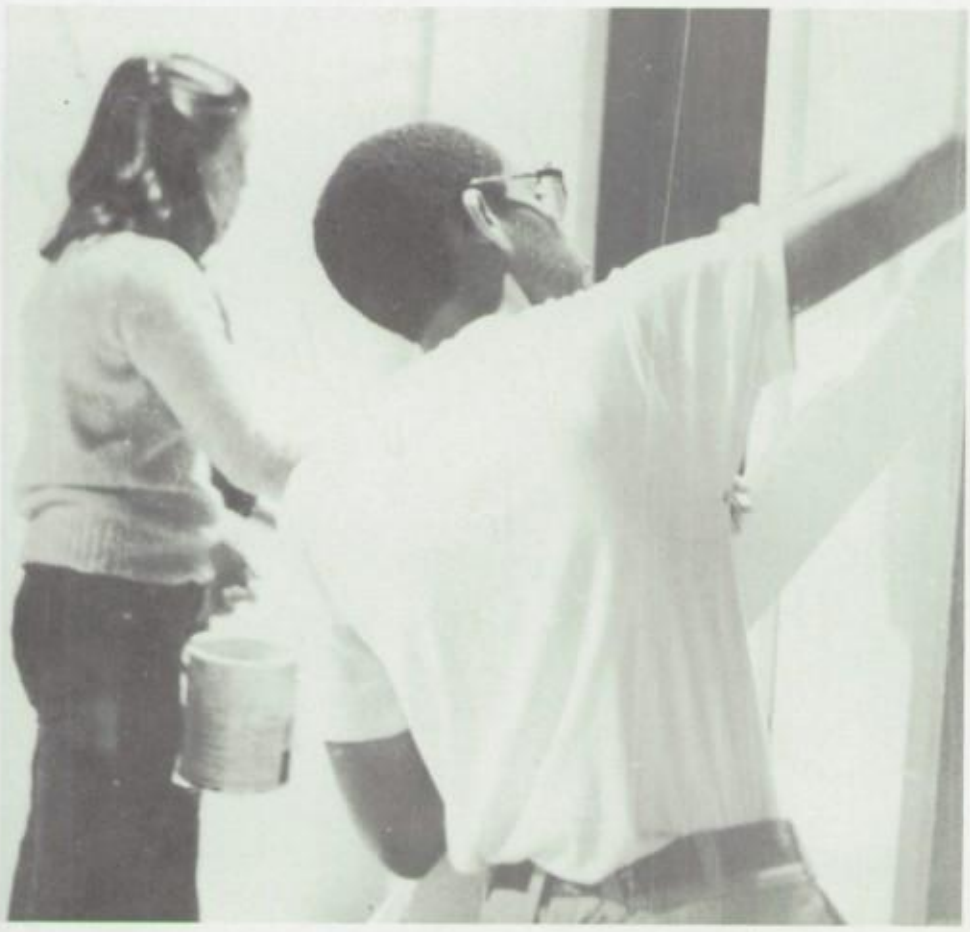
GOOD NEWS



EXCHANGE STUDENTS

I really loved it at Walnut Hills and learned a lot about living in the United States. I thought it would be so terrible but it turned out to be great and it's so hard to leave all you guys. First of all I found out that people here are friendly and open (Some of them are a little bit obnoxious, but forget about those) and I'm thankful for all these people who helped me when I needed it. School in America has lots of activities, much more than school in Germany have! Man I can dig it! All these plays (thanks to Mrs. Welsh) and activities. Americans are much more active in school, teachers and students. That is something I will take back and try to do in Cologne. Many thanks to everybody, teachers, officers, Mr. Shepherd, and friends and especially my family which I really loved!

Anna Mautner (YFU)

STUDENT EXCHANGE AT WALNUT

Walnut Hills is fortunate to have participants from several exchange groups in the school such as Youth for Understanding (YFU), Open Door, and of course, American Field Service (AFS). These students stay anywhere from 2-12 months with one family, occasionally travelling to interesting cities or tourist attractions or spending weekends with other host families.

In the YFU and AFS year programs, the students are required to take classes and receive grades, as do regular students. In Open Door, the students must attend school, but are not responsible for any work and receive no academic credit. These programs are wonderful experiences for all concerned, for the hosts as well as the exchange students, exploring different cultures, and making the world a little smaller by customs shared and explained. The friendships made and the fun times will never be forgotten by those involved.

Since the day I received my family's application, I was terrified of coming to such a big school. I had always gone to a private school that only had 600 students. That is a big difference.

Being a student in the school has taught me many things, from the meaning of "pickles" to the meaning of life and friendship. It has been hard to get used to all the different things, but it also has been exciting, even though it took me a little time to understand why people thought that in my country people live in trees. Cincinnati is a neat city and it has many interesting places.

I would like to thank my family, who have supported me, and all the teachers that had to put up with me, asking so many questions. Last, but not least I would like to thank all the students that have tried to help me and be my friends. It has been a wonderful experience, and I wouldn't change it for anything!

Sandra Quiñones — Santo Domingo
(AFS)

I want to thank all of you at Walnut for a wonderful time you are giving me. It has been full of happiness, sadness, fun, excitement, fear, interest, wonderful moments, and although I have times when I most of all would like to pack my suitcases and catch the next plane home, the overall experience is something too great to put in words. I want to give extra big thanks to my family, the Hoffmans, and especially one of my sisters, Martha, who also goes to Walnut. I wish that everybody could have the opportunity to experience what I am experiencing now.

There are so many things you all could learn — and enjoy — if you showed a little bit more interest in other cultures. Many things here are a lot different from Sweden, and if you want to know what it is like "over there" you are welcome to come and visit me.

FOOTBALL

The Eagles Varsity Football Team, under the leadership of Coach Campbell, overcame all odds this year to win the PHSL title. Quarterback John Felder and Captain Robert Sellers led the team from frustrating moments at the beginning of the season to the ecstasy of the PHSL crown. The senior members of the team drew scouts from all over the country to see the Walnut Hills games. Coach Campbell won Coach Of The Year honors in the PHSL. The 1980-81 Varsity Team leaves a tough record for future teams to follow.

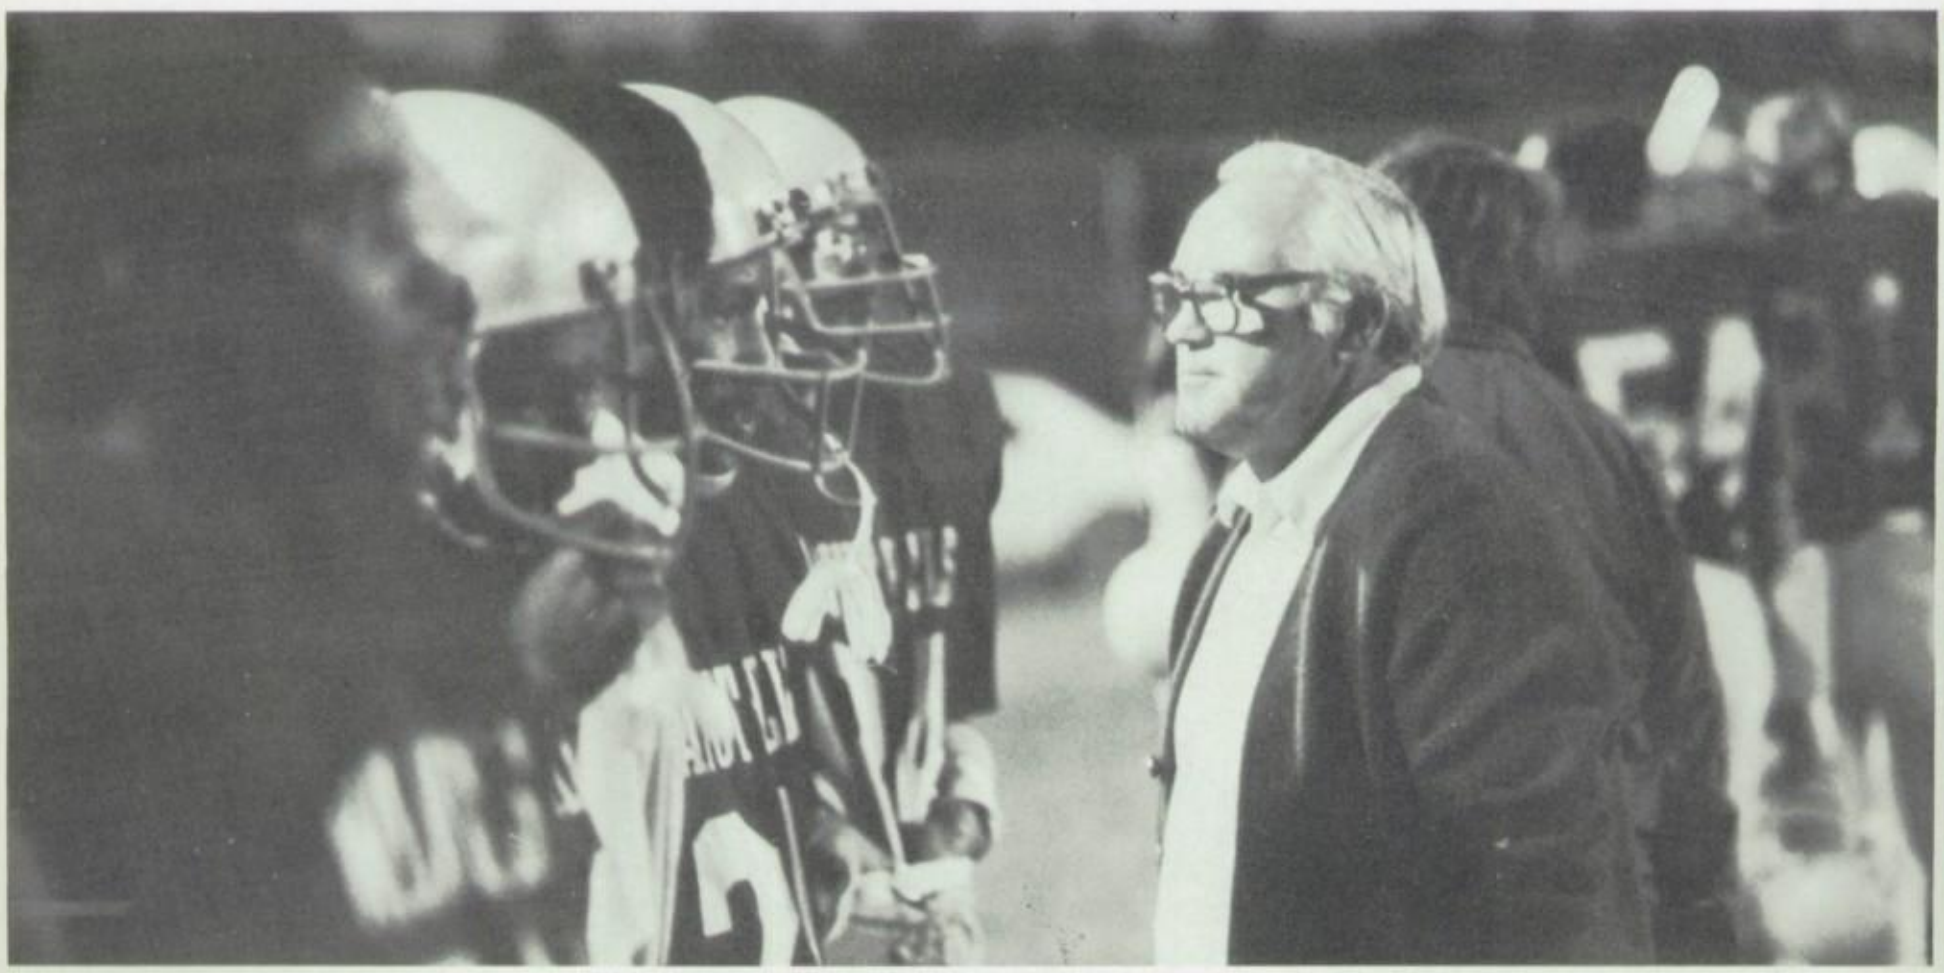
See I told you we could play alot better without you.



Alright men, you know what to do, so get out there and win!

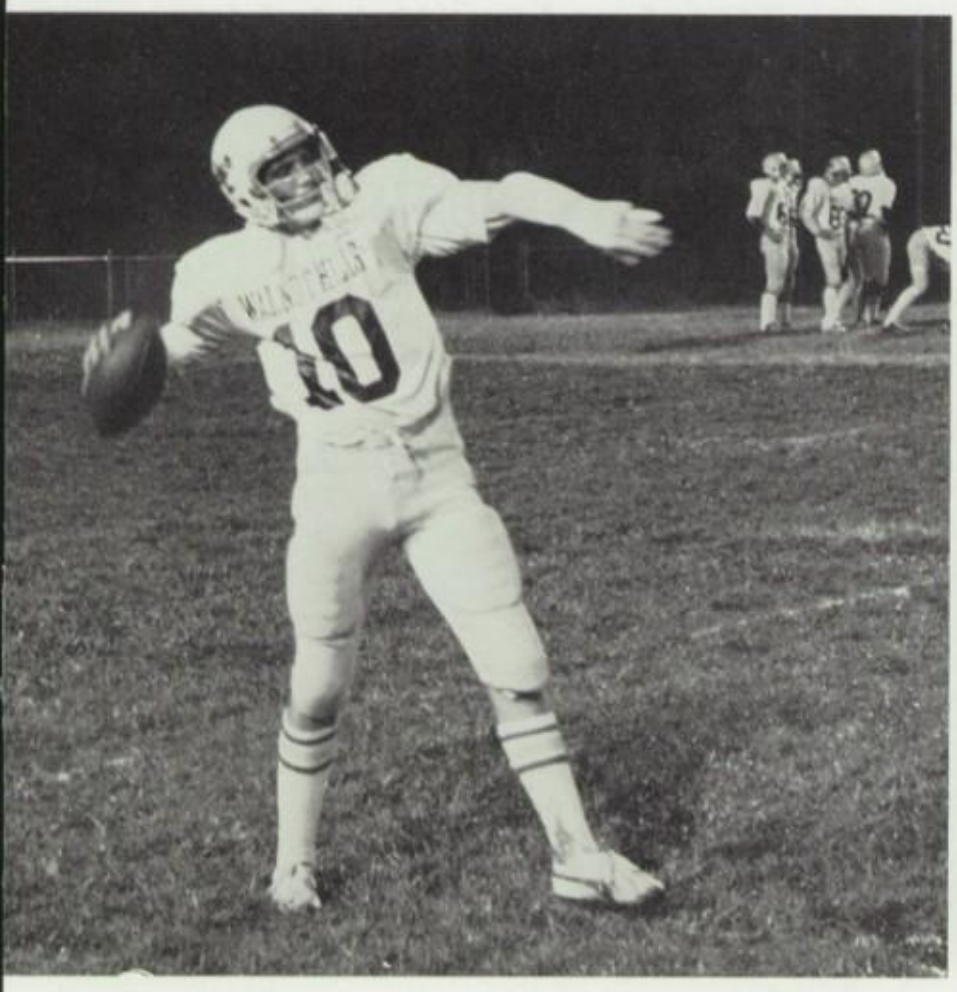
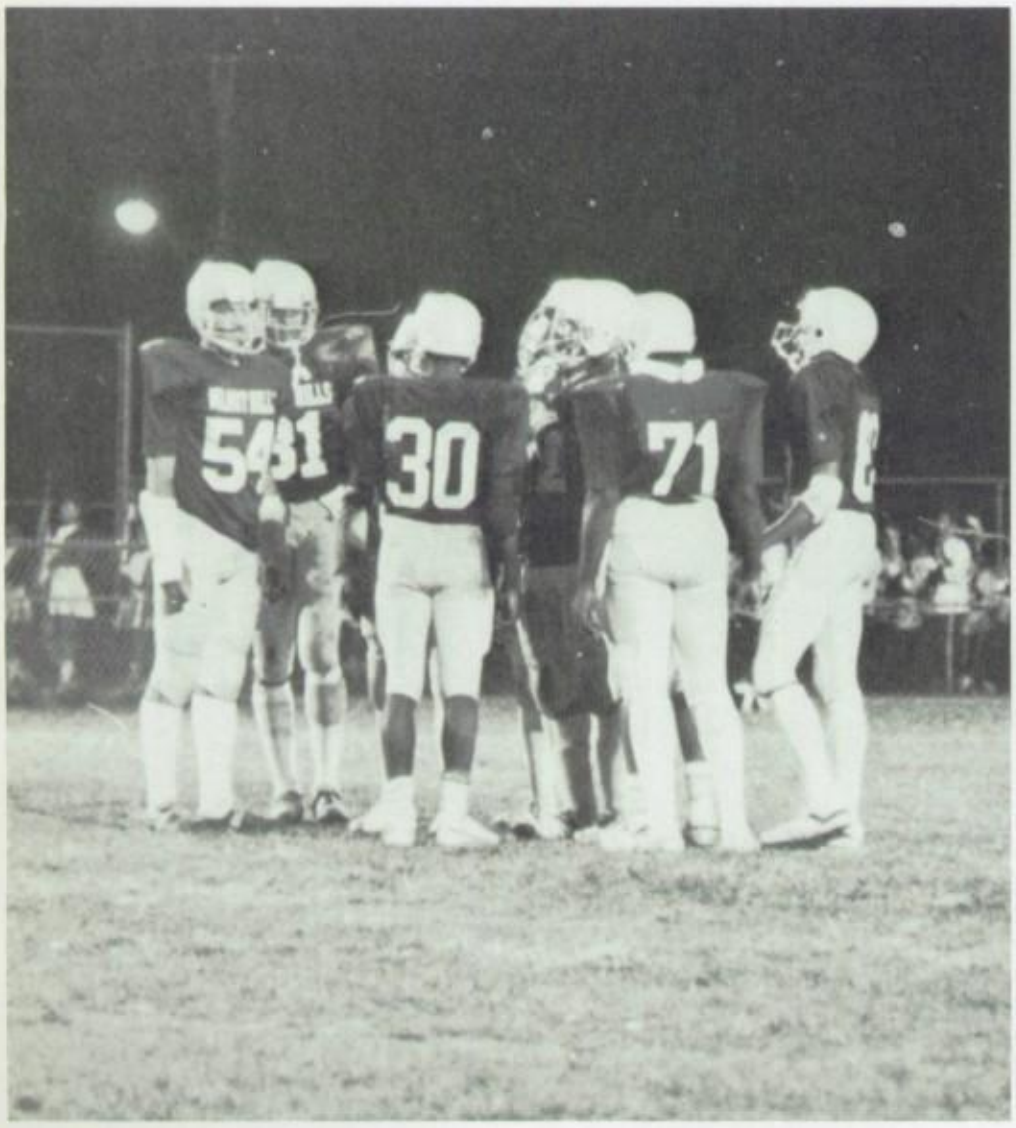
Hurry everyone and help me find my contact!!!



Catch this Dirk.

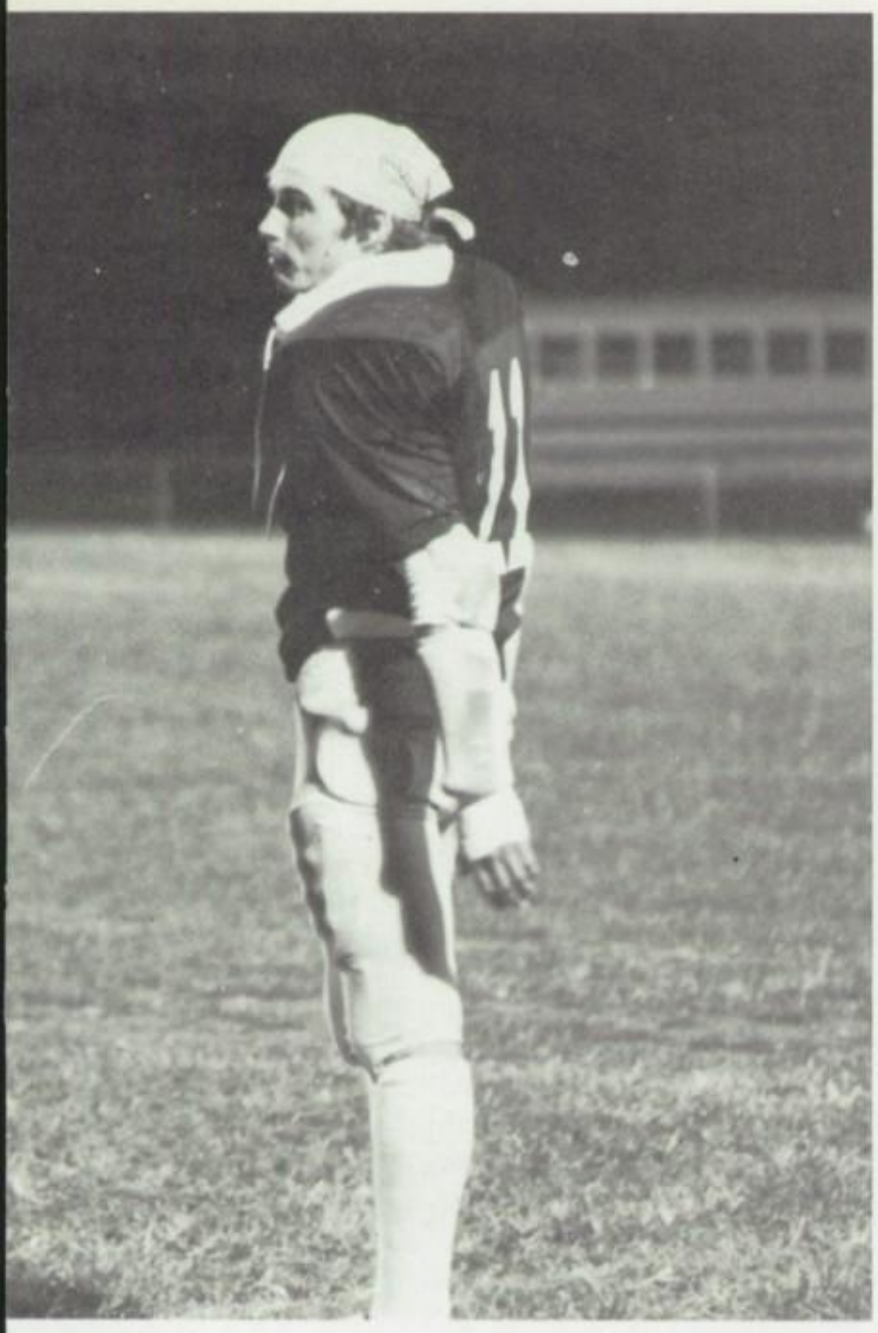
Thanks Mike.

Come on Kevin, I can't hold him all day.

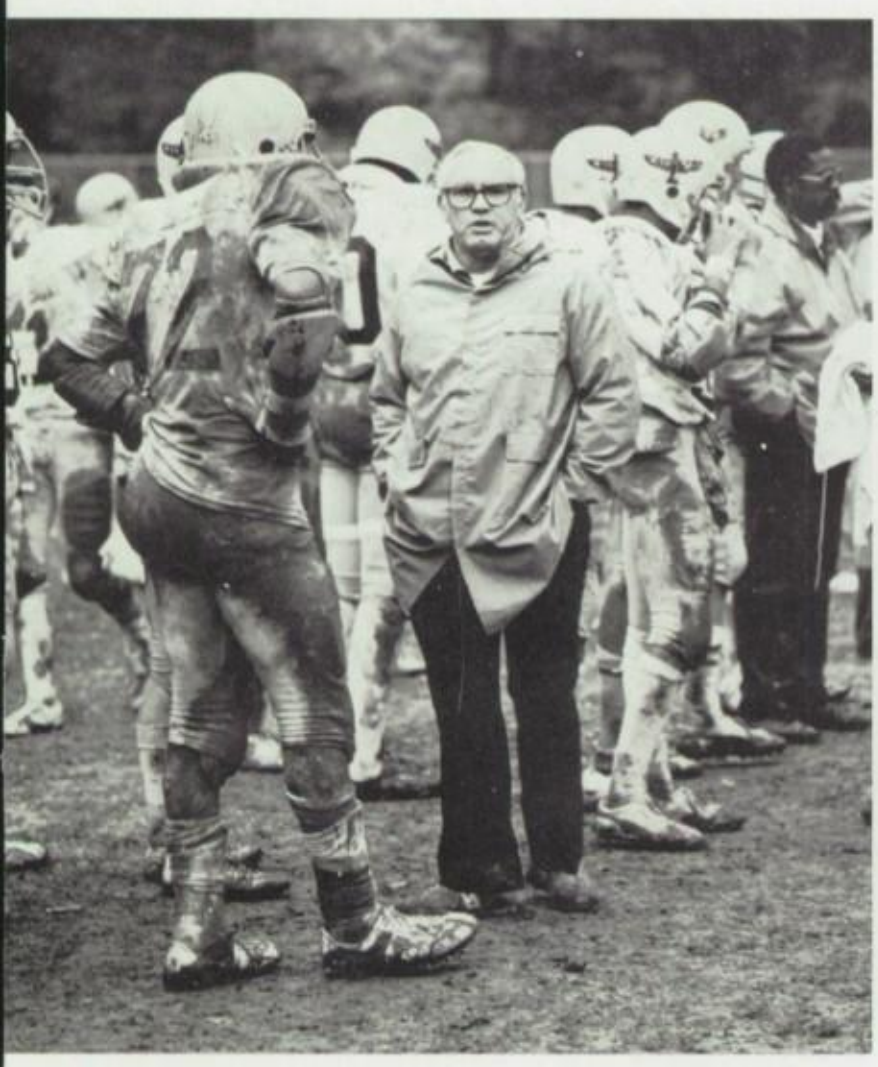


Spitfire Bob you're doing great.

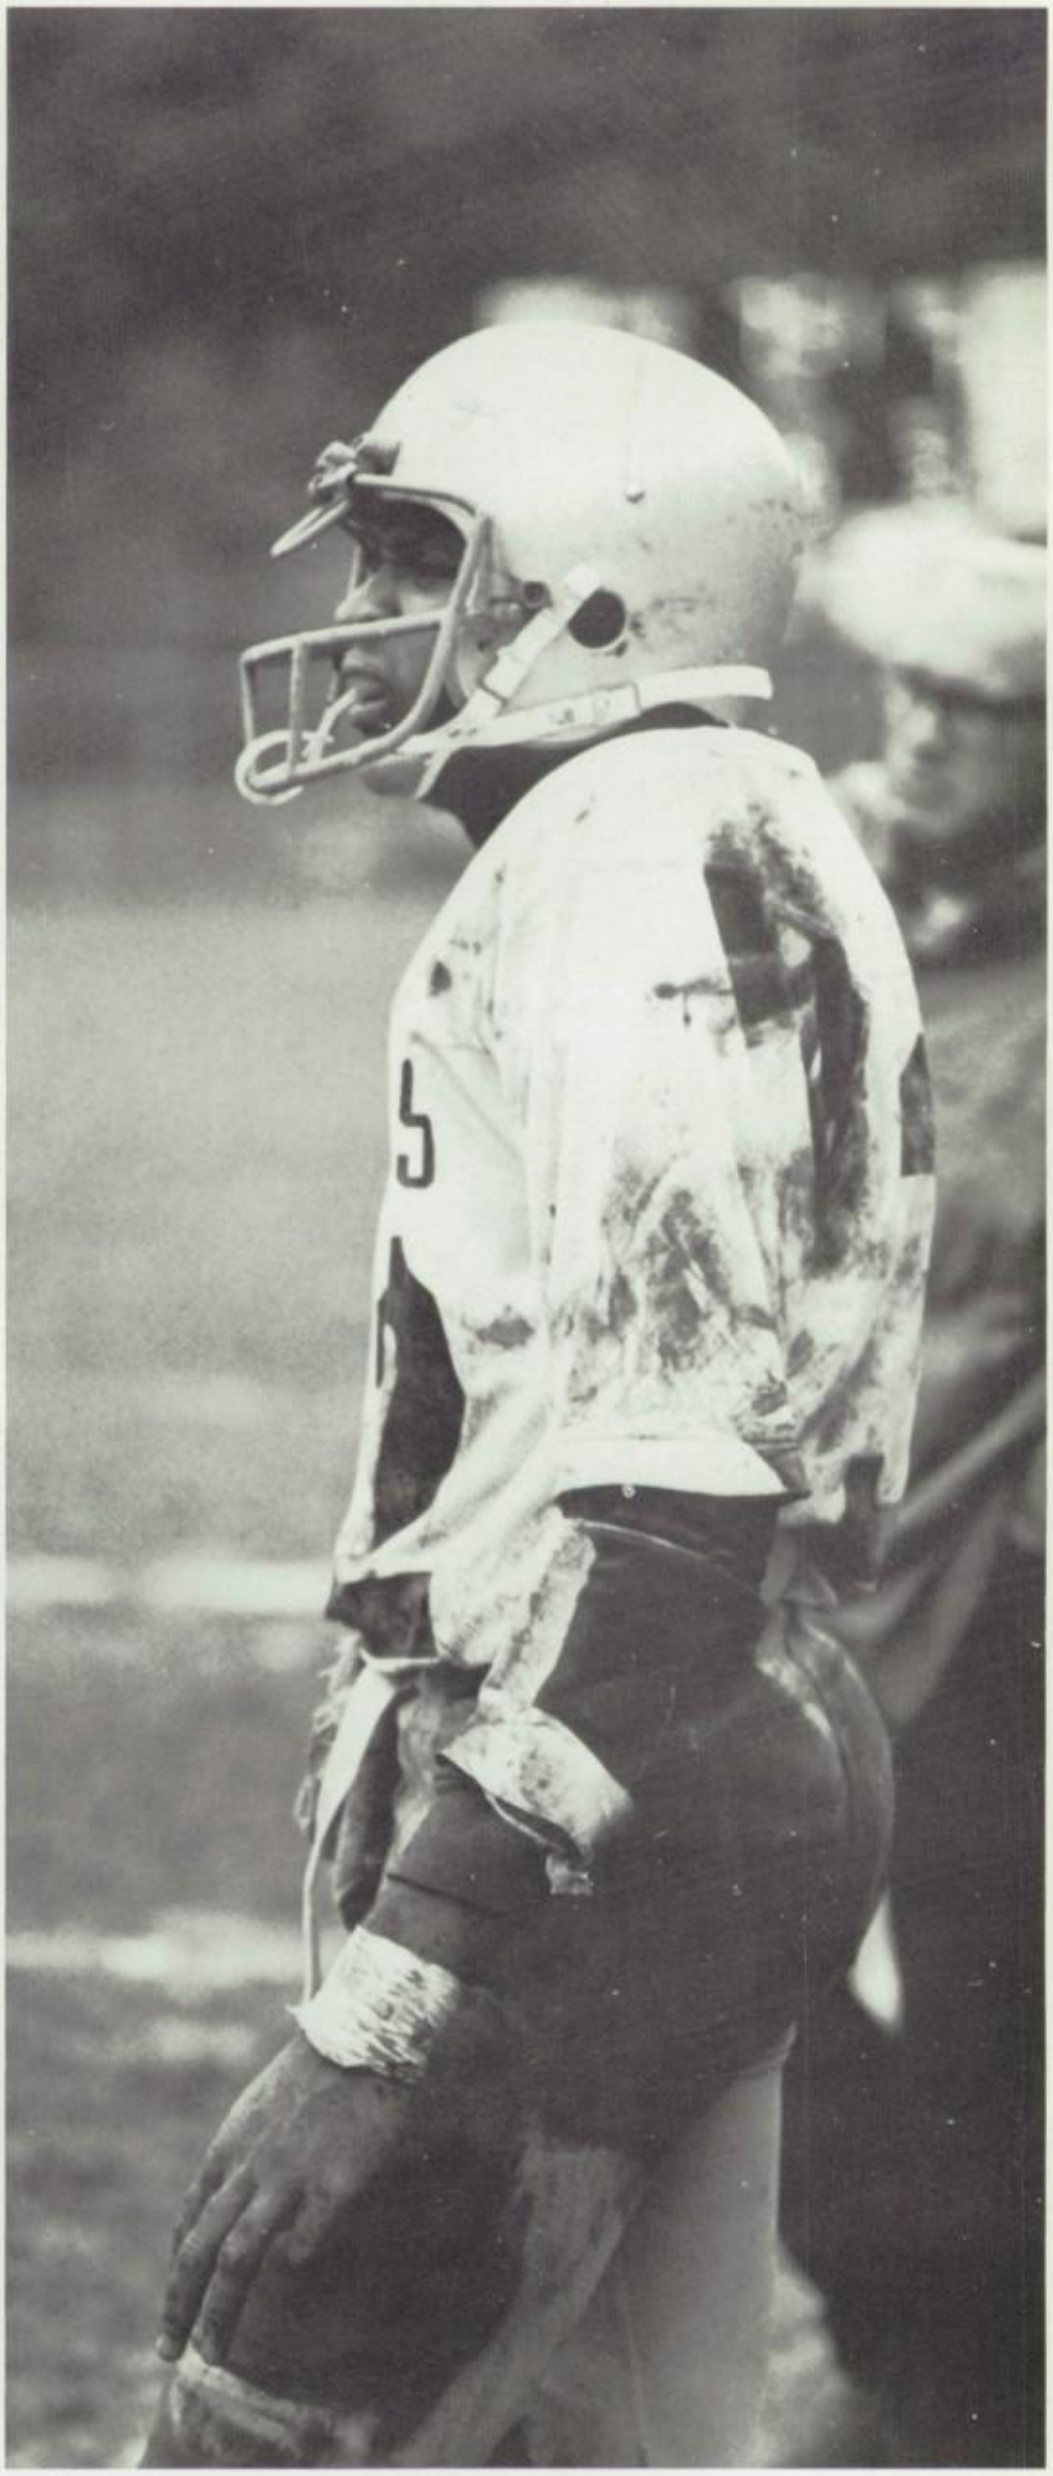
Another one bites the dust!!



If I can't start I'm going home!



How much longer do we have to stand here? The band wants to play.



What's going on? I can't see a thing without my glasses.

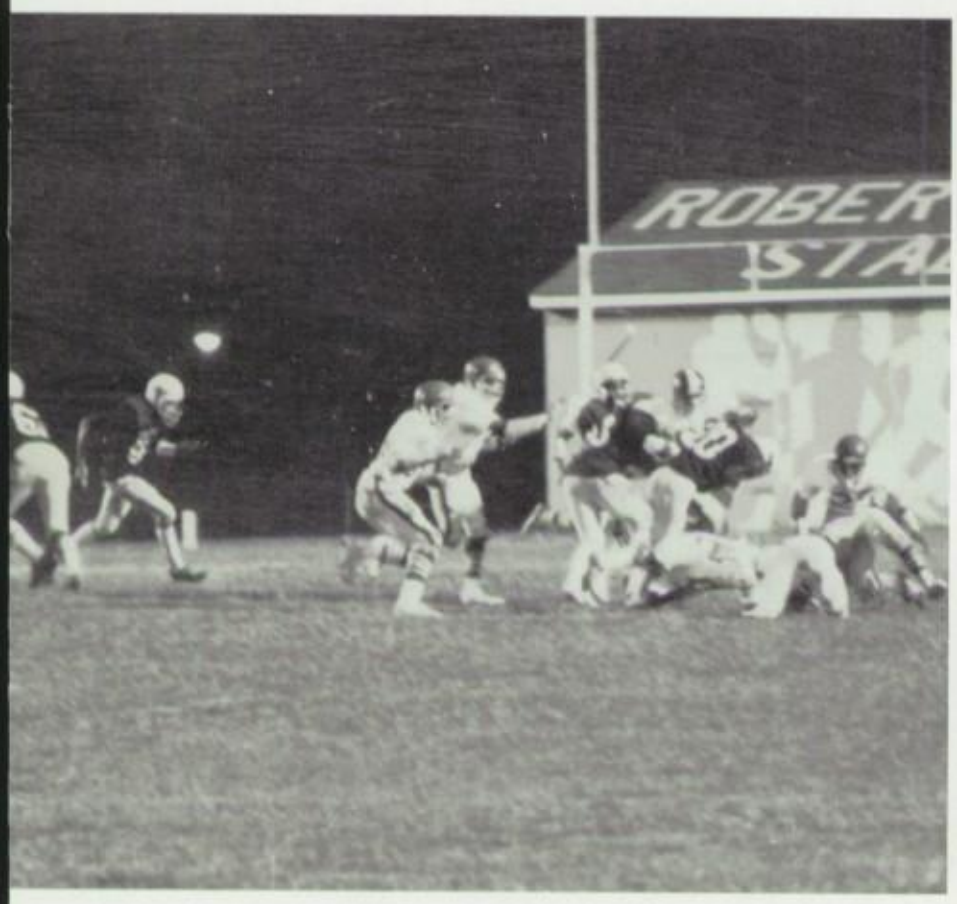
RESERVE

This years Eagles Varsity Team had one of the best seasons that they have had in many years. This winning season was not because of one or two good players. It was because of an excellent coach and a great team that played well together.

Chris boots another one.

Do you think we will ever get to play?



There he is, let's get him!

VARSITY

The Walnut Hills varsity soccer team had another productive season this year, winning their seventh consecutive P.H.S.L. title. Despite their two early season losses, the Eagles won fourteen straight games, eleven of which were shutouts. Coach Muro set goals of retaining the P.H.S.L. title and going to sectional finals — the team obtained both of these. As coach Muro said, "They had a heck of a season."

RESERVE

The Walnut Hills Reserve soccer team didn't do as well as the varsity but, when you think about it it's pretty hard to keep up with a varsity team that's one of the best in the league. The reserve team played hard and showed that they had talent against teams such as New Richmond and Seven Hills where they won by six points in one and nine in the other. The team shows promise to be one of the best next year as a varsity squad.

The annual REM-CHATTERBOX Softball game was a great success. The two teams met peacefully on a warm October day to take part in this vigorous competition that would determine which staff was "Number 1" (Of course there was no doubt in our minds). An overwhelming crowd filled the bleachers for this big event. The REM staff came "dressed to kill" and definitely outclassed their opponents with their matching t-shirts. Coach Ferguson cheered for REM. Ms. Guentert tried to help her team in their futile effort. Even Mr. Shepherd got involved in a little 'dirty' work. In the end, the Rem staff defeated their enemies with a thrilling 9-2 victory!!!

Jack Kennevan

Mr. Mathews and Mr. Kennevan, our two new administrators, adjusted very easily to Walnut Hills life. Coming from Aiken as a business teacher and from Porter as an assistant principal, Mr. Mathews came to be respected as a fair and efficient administrator.

Likewise, Mr. Kennevan highly values education and proved to be outstanding in dealing with scheduling and AP's. Expressing his thoughts, Mr. Kennevan says, "I wish to express my sincere thanks for introducing and sharing with me your rich inheritance — a living tradition, a rewarding experience that is uniquely Walnut Hills. By definition tradition is the handing down of information, beliefs and customs by word of mouth or by example from one generation to the next without instruction. Thus, tradition not only affects a healthy cultural continuity, but also affects a living inheritance for all those associated with Walnut Hills. This inheritance that is ours is far more than just a possession handed down from past generations. Our inheritance is both a life-giving and life sustaining that is given and received in countless ways by the people who have in the past, or presently making and will continue to make Walnut Hills more than just a citadel of learning. Walnut Hills is a cosmopolis of great minds, exceptional talents and outstanding human beings.

Dane Mitchell is an extremely skillful and knowledgeable math teacher. He feels that in order for his students to effectively learn he must strive for clarity when conveying concepts, he must encourage the student to accept his or her responsibility, and finally he feels that the level at which the students achieve determines how he will present the material. Outside of the classroom, he enjoys watching major sports, reading, and being involved with his family's activities.

"J'enseigne le français à Walnut Hills depuis 1975. Avant WHHS j'ai travaillé sur ma maîtrise à l'université d'Ohio à Columbus.

"Comme élevé j'aimais tous les cours — l'histoire, la chimie, les mathématiques, etc. Pour moi, une langue étrangère c'est la seule discipline où l'on peut s'intéresser à toutes sortes de sujets à la fois. Et puis il y a une poésie dans le son du français qui m'a attirée dè le commencement. A mon avis, on ne peut pas être un bon professeur sans s'intéresser à bien des sujets, car plus important que la discipline enseignée sont les valeurs et la façon de penser et de vivre que partage le professeur avec ses élèves.

"J'aime le théâtre, les films, la musique, et l'art. Mais ma grande passion c'est la poésie. J'écris des poèmes et je fais partie d'un groupe de poètes qui s'appelle "Cincinnati Poet's Workshop."

"Je voudrais prendre cette occasion pour dire à mes élèves que je les adore tous. Vous, mes amis, vous me donnez une joie inexplicable à vous voir mûrir. Cherchez la beauté partout, et comme dit Baudelaire, elle rendra "l'univers moins hide ux et les instants moins lourds."

"If a Walnut Hills student has not had Joseph Knab upon graduation, he is missing an essential part of the learning experience." This is heard many times by teachers and students alike. Mr. Knab's philosophy of teaching is an enlightening and fascinating one. He wishes to "make one aware of the fact that the past is never dead, but is a living presence. To have the students realize that the present is a mosaic of the past, and that we are products of the past." He also feels that this quote by Cicero encompasses his feelings, "He who does not know what transpired before he was born is destined to be ever a buffoon." Outside the classroom Mr. Knab enjoys collecting antiques, raising quail, making wine, gardening, and above all, cooking.

Lillie Gravely is a tradition in the English department at Walnut Hills. She has been teaching 10AA for 11 years and is well known for her ability to teach her students the difficult skill of expository writing. Her course is rigorous, but she knows that her students will appreciate this later. Mrs. Gravely hopes that when a student has completed her course they will have a good basis of literary analysis and composition. She feels that the AP program is one of the strengths of WHHS because it teaches students to appreciate their language and write strongly; not just for the AP exam, but for themselves as well. With dedication she also attends annually the convention for the National Organization of English Teachers. In her small amount of spare time she has begun to research her family's history with her brother.

Dr. Roger Burgess, new leader of the Walnut Hills Physics classes, has eagerly brought to us a varied range of experinces. Dr. Burgess is a holder of a Masters from Ball State U. and Indiana U. He, his wife, and his daughter, have traveled extensively in Europe and South America to witness the 1966 solar eclipse.

He has many interests which have led him to participate in the creation of our Astronomy Club. That is not surprising since Astronomy is his true love. Many a night he spends time staring at the stars. His philosophy that "Nature is simple and Nature is consistent" is apparent in his classes. Dr. Burgess is a truly inspiring teacher and individual.

A movie filmed at Walnut Hills? To the amazement of all, what started out as a dubious rumor became true. Walnut Hills students were chosen to be in the spotlight of a motion picture made for t.v. called the Pride of Jessie Hallam. The whole school felt the presence of Hollywood as director chairs, movie cameras, lights, star trailers and security guards were noticed everywhere. For five days, the school tolerated hall detours, delays in classes and security guards ushering stray students anticipating a precious glimpse of a movie star. About a thousand students were recruited to participate in the track scene and the students responded with overwhelming enthusiasm. A lucky few were even chosen as fill ins to work (play) in scenes with Johnny Cash himself who starred with Brenda Vicarro. It definitely contributed to an interesting year.

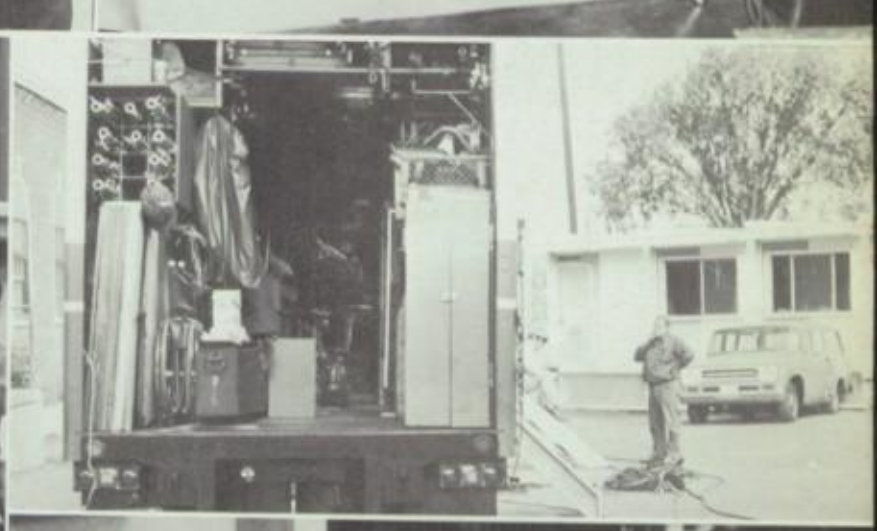
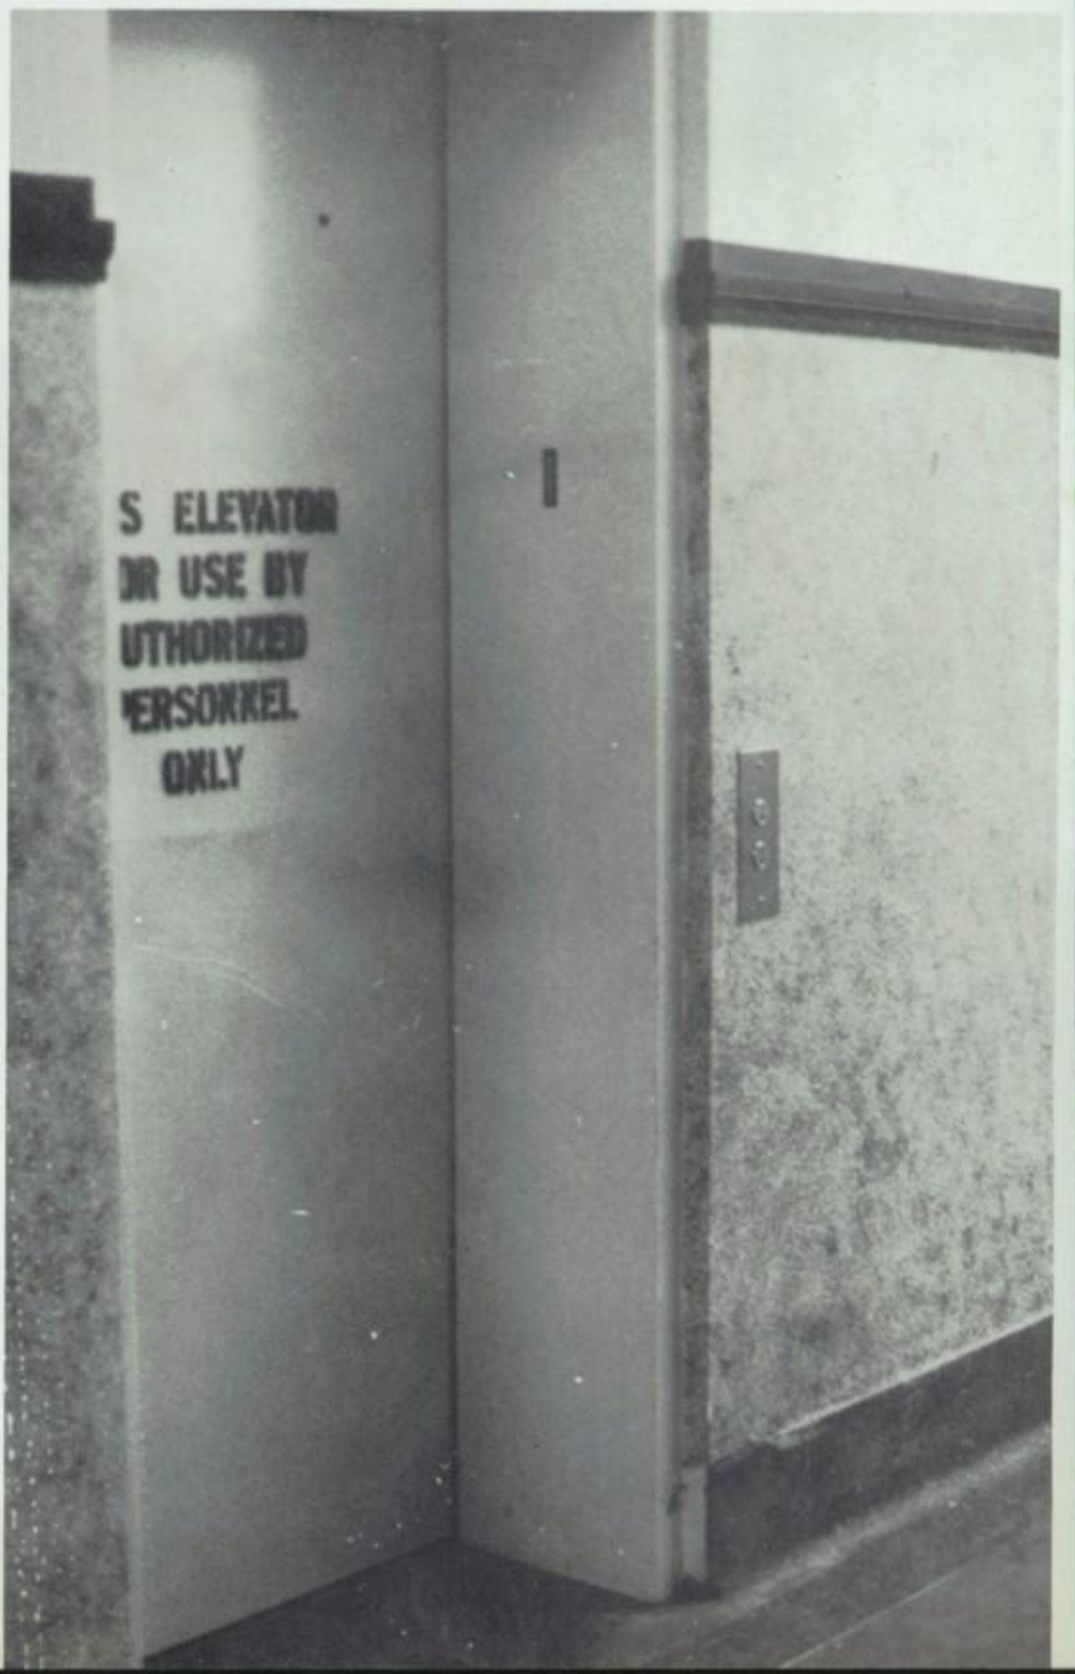
1980

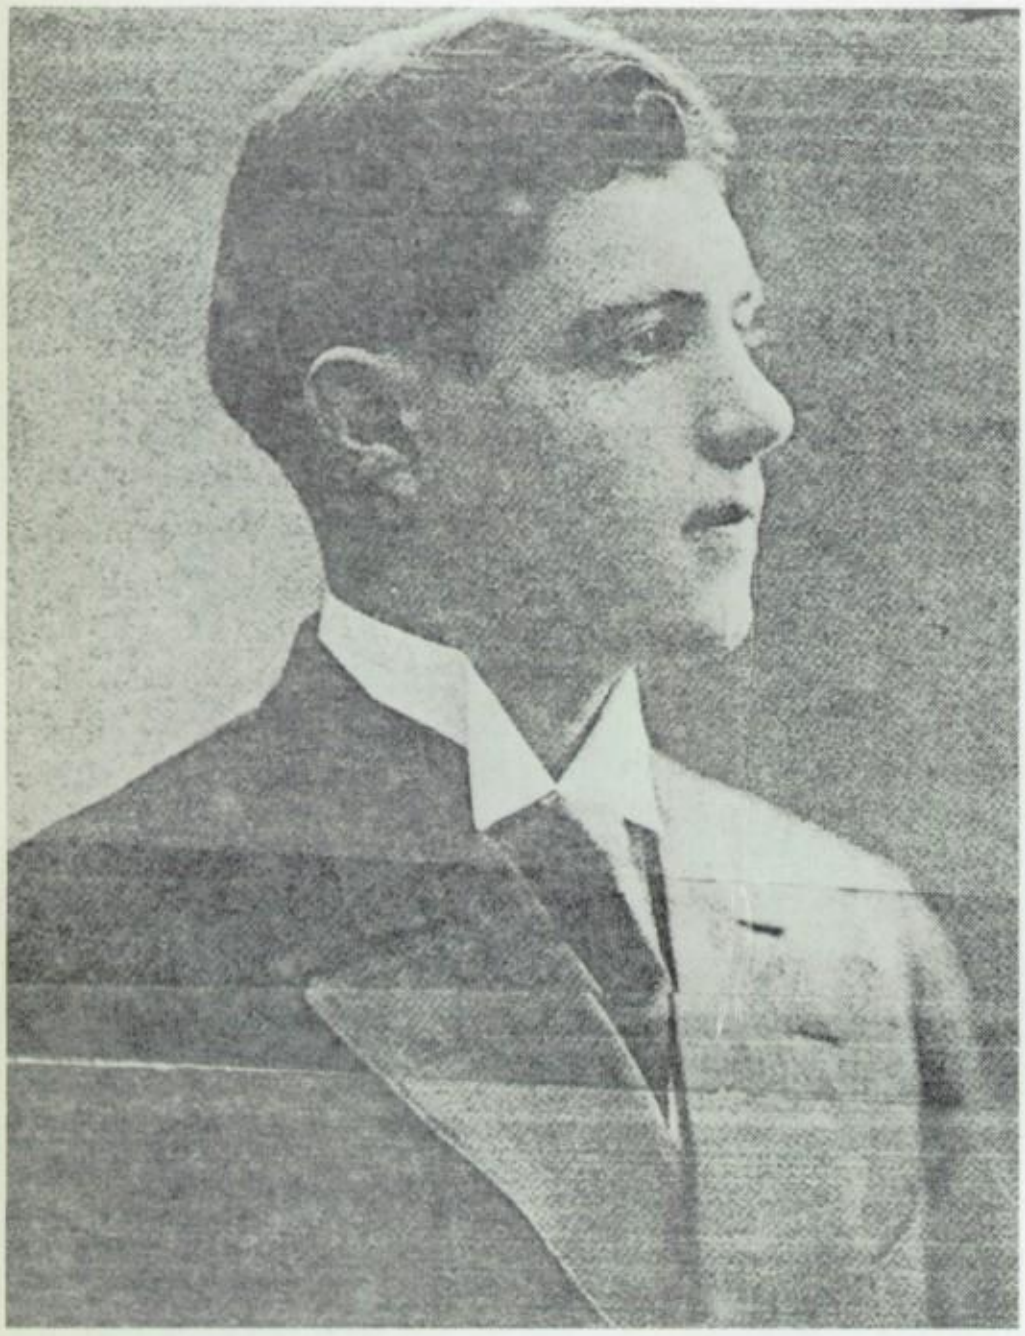


Things are looking up since the tax levy was passed. Long overdo peripheral improvements have added a renewed look. The annex roof received the doctoral attention it needed. Among the many noticeable improvements, the finest is undoubtedly the state mandated addition of handicap facilities. The 158,000 dollar bond issue building fund even appropriated money for an elevator. Yes, the traditional legend of an elevator for effies has actually come true. Except now, instead of needing a pass from a cockey senior, the new requirement is an injury.

Many entrances and throughways have been adapted with ramps, as well as having the bathroom facilities adjusted to comply to the needs of the handicap and injured.



For the first time ever, Walnut Hills has opened its doors to blind students. Two seventh graders, Angie Taylor and Steve Mitchell, take individualized classes with a special instructor, Mrs. Meckas, and also attend mainstream classes. Coming from Washington Park school, Angie and Steve were the only two out of 87 students who passed the Walnut Hills test. This, we feel, is very impressive. Hopefully, Walnut can continue to provide learning opportunities for all qualified students regardless of physical handicap.



The Robert Marx Stadium is named after the generous benefactor, Robert Marx. Born on Jan. 28, 1889, in downtown Cincinnati, the son of a shoe salesman, his youth was spent in suburban Avondale where he attended Avondale Public School. Following this, he attended Walnut Hills High School and developed a good reputation for winning over audiences, being on the debate team for 3 years in a row. In the 1906 REM, he is described as a modern Mark Anthony, having oratorical qualities which helped him in the future. He was voted "windiest" and also "freshest." He was even identified with this verse;

Hail Robert Marx, our great debator.
We know you're not a woman hater.
For as you pass out of the class,
You throw a smile to every lass.

Max graduated from UC law school after achieving very high grades. He was a member of the football team, vice president of the debating association and of the Democratic club. He had the longest "write-up", in the UC yearbook, of any of the twenty law students graduating that year. He also achieved the highest grade on the bar exam.

Marx was recruited by the army during W.W. I, where he became active in organizing military camps. He also was named captain of his batallion in France. Upon returning to Cincinnati after the war he ran for and attained the position of Judge of the Supreme Court of Ohio.

Robert Marx is especially appreciated as a single example of accomplished graduates of Walnut Hills. Many more are to follow.

In the spirit of Sursum ad Sumum, many Walnut Hills graduates have reached the apex of success. In addition to some local personalities Walnut Hills alumni include many nationally known achievers.

Locally, Willis Gradison (Clockwise) (1) has become a US Representative, Stan Arnoff has become a state Senator, Carl Rubin, (2) a federal judge, and Arn Bortz now serves on city council.

Some nationally known figures include Tony Trabert (3), a Wimbledon Champion, Theda Bara, a famous silent movie actress, James Levine, conductor of the N.Y. Met, and Jerry Rubin, (4) a former Yippie leader and now a Wall Street business executive. Barry Bishop, (5) a member of the first exhibition to climb and reach the top of Mt. Everest, is also a member of WH alumni. Others include, Doug Cramer, (6) producer of The Brady Bunch, The Odd Couple, The Love Boat, and many other successful shows. Miller Huggins, the first NY Yankee manager to win the World Series, was also a graduate of WH, as was Elizabeth Drew (7) a successful journalist, and Edward Youkilis (8), an internationally known artist.

We are sure that we have overlooked so many other noted graduates and have overlooked those successful doctors, lawyers, bankers, scientists, and authors.

Sursum ad Summum — higher and higher — hopefully, we will all achieve our greatest capability and find contentment in whatever we do.

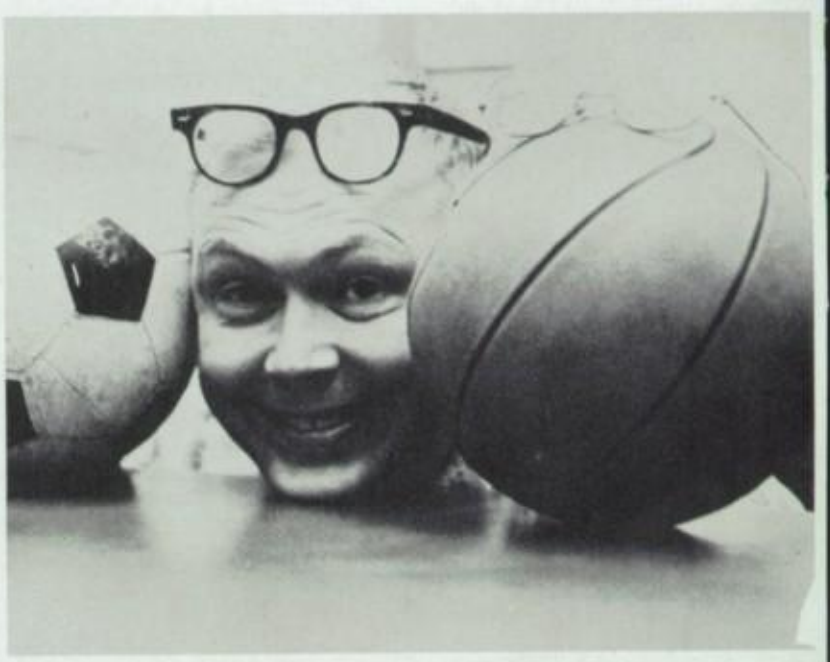
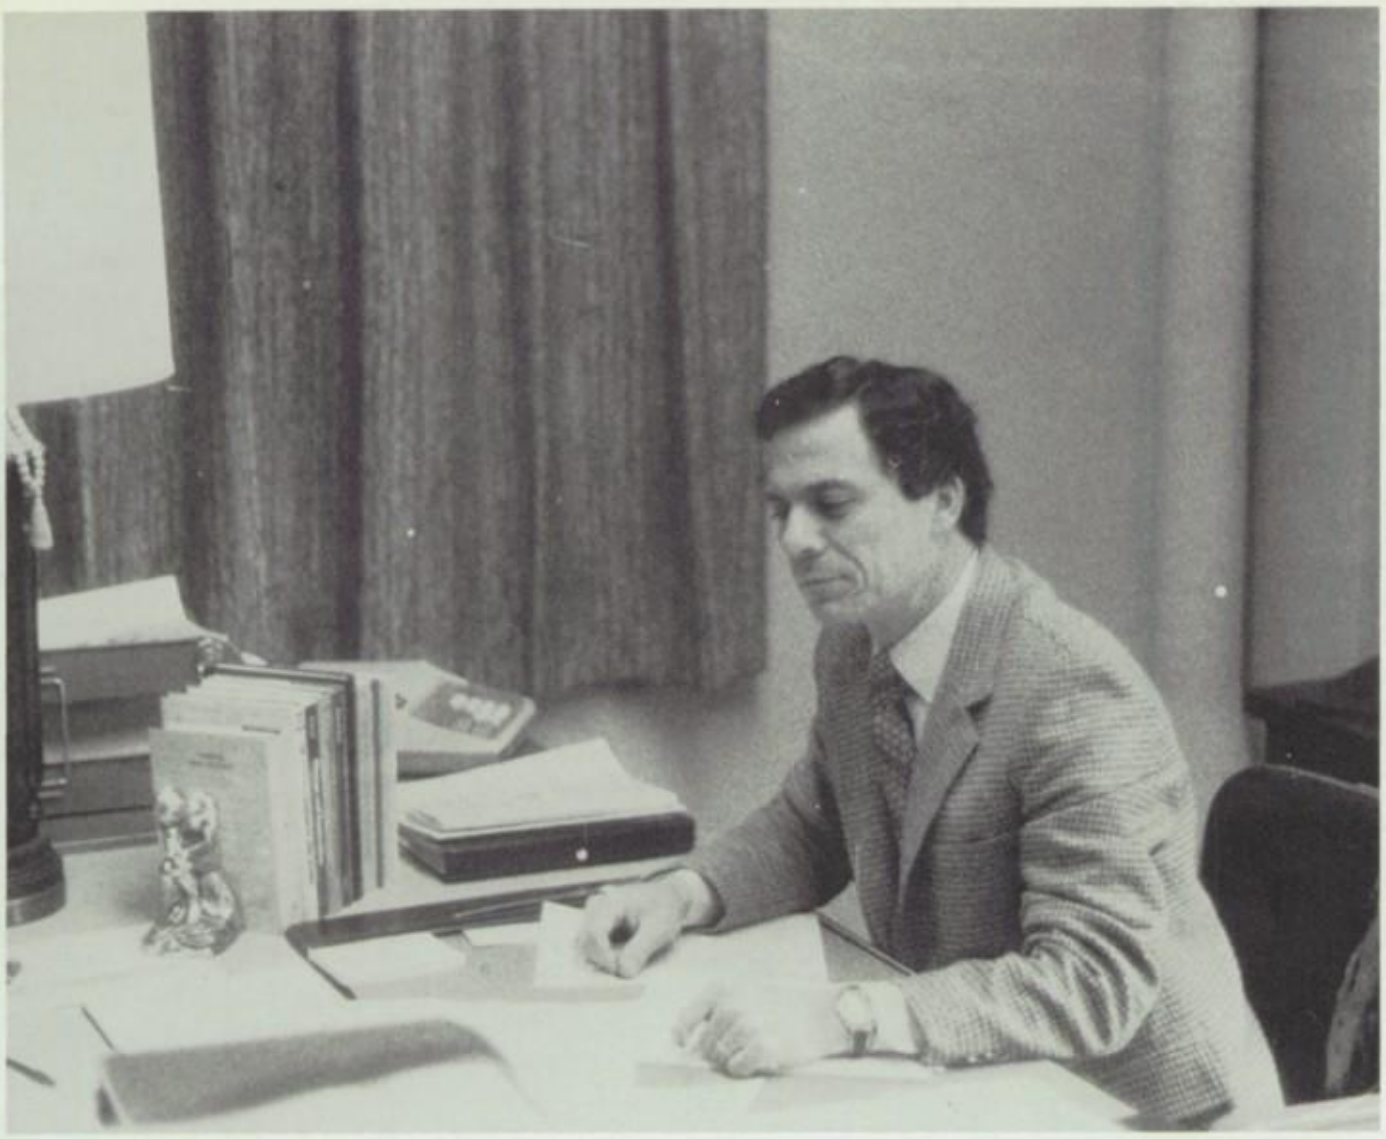
Take your place kiddies, it's time to play musical administrators . . . This year we saw many changes in Walnut Hills' administration. Of course Mr. Shepherd remained our ever loving chief principal but the assistant principals changed faster than their secretaries could type their names. After our relatively new administrator (of one year) Mr. Hunter replaced Mr. McCracken who was promoted to SCPA, Mr. Finke was moved to Mr. Hunter's old office. Mr. Kennevin, who was formerly at SCPA took over Mr. Finke's old job and all was well. But before you let this fully sink in, read on . . . Mr. Allender was promoted to a Board of Education job downtown, so Mr. Kennevin took Mr. Allender's job at Walnut — which is working with computers among other things — then Mr. Mathews entered the Walnut Hills scene to take over Mr. Kennevin's old job which was originally Mr. Finke's which was originally Mr. Heinlein's — but that was too long ago for most of you to remember. With all of these floating administrators why not bring back the floating B pattern? (but that was too long ago for most of you to remember too!!).



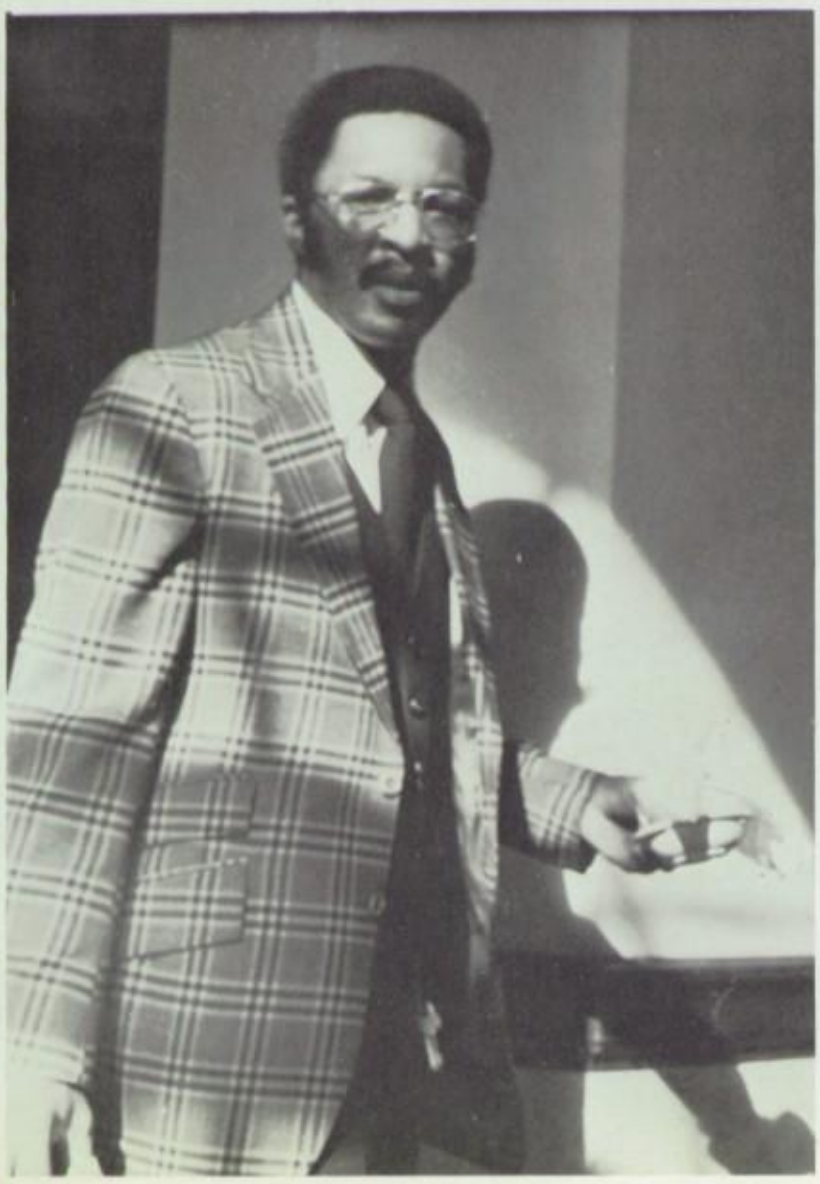
Mr. McCracken, who was switched to Assistant principal at SCPA, claims he is now going through his second fatherhood. After Walnut Hills students to look after for 12 years, he now has to deal with fourth grade on . . . imagine that! Still, he is always available with his door open to all those who need him. He said, "Walnut Hills made me an old man" but he still misses the students and staff alike. As SCPA will soon see, Mr. McCracken is about as silly as an administrator can be.



Since becoming associate Director of Administrative Services for the Cincinnati Public School system, Mr. Allendar is responsible for generally the same programs he worked with and mastered at Walnut Hills. Organizing the schools' curriculum, allocations of teachers, grades for all secondary schools, and instruction are his main jobs, while his new major responsibility is involved with accrediting all of the schools. When going through his files and folders, bringing thirteen years of memories to an end, he felt it "sickening leaving his second family".

Mr. Allendar's advice to all of us is, "Take advantage of all of the opportunities available. Dig when opportunities knock, and don't do something just because it's prestigious or easy.

NEW ADMINISTRATORS



This form was sent to all parents of Walnut Hills students in June, 1980:

DRUG & ALCOHOL ABUSE:
*SUGGESTED PARENTAL GUIDELINES

Realizing that drug and alcohol abuse by youth can be greatly diminished through community awareness and intensified parental supervision, we are urging parents of our community to follow these guidelines as closely as possible. We recognize that each child and each family situation may alter circumstances. Parents, therefore, should use discretion in adjusting these guidelines for their own children.

1. Recognize that children in our community, as throughout the nation, are using drugs.
2. Make a clear and firm stand against any drug or alcohol abuse by your child.
3. Typical signs, such as increased irritability, falling grades, skipping school, bad memory, lying, listlessness, secretiveness about money, friends, and activities may suggest substance abuse.
4. Parents are responsible for actively supervising their child's behavior and if circumstances warrant, searching for physical signs might be warranted.
5. Know what popularly used drugs look and smell like and what paraphernalia is used in connection with drugs.
6. Parents must be willing to directly and honestly confront their child if they suspect drug or alcohol abuse.
7. Recognize that you are a parent, and not your child's peer. Be willing to enforce your rules and discipline with love. Be concerned about what drug and alcohol usage can do to your child and love him or her enough to separate them from any harmvul association with drugs and alcohol.
8. Know where your child is at all times. Your child should know where you can be reached at all times.
9. Re-evaluate your use of drugs and alcohol so as not to present a bad example.
10. Parents, when you are not at home, it is a helpful idea to have a neighbor aware of your absence.
11. Even teenagers should have a figure of authority in the home when parents are away from home for a week-end trip or more extensive vacation. An unsupervised home leaves them susceptible to impulse behavior in response to suggestions from friends.
12. Parents should always have a specific time for the child to return home. Circumstances and the specific (pre-determined) activity may determine the appropriate timing but suggestions are for no later than 11:00 p.m. on weekends for older elementary school children; 11:30 p.m. or 12:00 for early high school; 12:00 or 12:30 for older high school. Parents should be awake or expect to be awakened when their children come home.
13. Children should not be "Camping Out" in back yards and the woods unless supervised by a parent.
14. Children of any age should not be spending the night with friends unless contact is made with the other parent to be certain parents will be at home and that their stand on behavior and drug usage is compatible with your own. Your child should not spend the night away unless that parental contact has been made.
15. Be aware of media influence on your child and the open praise given drug usage in the lyrics of some popular rock music, TV programs and movies. Parents should be extremely selective in permitting their older children to attend rock concerts or other large public events.
16. Students wearing clothing, belt buckles, jewelry, or other apparel which promotes the drug culture may suggest more than faddish dress.
17. Your child is susceptible to doing what the crowd does. If your child has questionable friends, curtail his activities with that group. All callers to the home should identify themselves, or they should not be permitted to talk to your child.
18. When allowing your child to host a party, insist on a non-alcohol, no-drug policy and strictly enforce it. Anyone already under the influence of alcohol coming to the party should not be admitted. Recruit other parents to chaperone if necessary and keep the party small enough to handle. If your child balks at these restrictions, then, no party. (If a crowd builds up outdoors, disperse the crowd, with police assistance if necessary.) Your neighbors shouldn't have to suffer from the noise and litter. End the party by midnight for older teens, earlier for younger ones. If your child wishes to attend a party, call the parents to see if all of the above restrictions are in effect. Attendance at open parties should be discouraged.
19. Whenever you suspect a "trail party" going on, call the proper law enforcement to break it up. The parties are in secluded areas to escape adult supervision. Know where your child is!
20. Be aware of drug contacts, which are made easier with children who are loitering around malls or other public places.
21. Plan more family-oriented activities to include your children and their friends.

*Parents should feel that they can effectively deal with drug or alcohol problems in their family. There is community support for eliminating this problem and many resources are available to help. Parents are encouraged to seek help if necessary from school counselors, clergy, police, or other parents. We can make a difference!

The Rebuttal

Suggested Parent Guidelines (compiled by concerned students of Walnut):

1. Realize that children in our community, as through the nation, are improving their minds.
2. Make a clear and firm stand against any studying and/or intellectual pursuits in which your child may partake.
3. Typical signs, such as Summa Cum Laude pins, honor roll certificates, frequent trips to the library, and membership in elite school clubs, may suggest that you should observe your child carefully.
4. Parents are responsible for actively restricting their child's study habits and searching for physical signs of intellectual awareness may be warranted.
5. Know what books are advanced for your child's grade and what paraphenalia is used in connection with studying, ie., slide rules, calculators, and the complete works of Shakespeare.
6. Parents must be willing to directly and honestly confront their child if they suspect involvement in the above mentioned activities.
7. Recognize that you are a parent and it is your duty to stunt the growth of your child s mind.
8. Know where your child is at all times, making sure that it is not at the local library.
9. To set a good example watch TV shows such as I Love Lucy, Mayberry RFD, Greenacres and The Price Is Right while reading the National Enquirer.
10. When you are not at home make sure that the liquor cabinet is easily accesible to your child to promote relaxation.
11. Teenagers should be discouraged from assuming positions of responsibility in the household.
12. Parents should encourage late night weekends and should not allow their child in the house earlier than 2 am on weeknights.
13. Parents should condone backyard campouts to promote the study of various herbs, mushrooms, and weeds, to encourage the experience of 'wildlife'.
14. To ensure proper behavior, parents should encourage their child to entertain guests at decadent overnight toga parties.
15. Be wary of the National Foundation of the Arts. Parents should be selective in allowing their child to attend art exhibits, lectures, and poetry readings.
16. Students who wear calculators on their belts, carry large stacks of books, and walk around in a daze quoting William Wordsworth may suggest more than the current trend.
17. If your child is independent and responsible encourage peer pressure. If your child has no friends suggest that he hang around county parks after dark.
18. When allowing your child to host a party — insist on a no-koolaid and no-pretzel policy.
19. What in the $&#$ is a trail party?
20. Be aware of math tutors when your child asks to stay after school.
21. Include your children in vice-oriented activities.

To Calvin

A very nice young man whom I've had the pleasure of knowing and meeting this year. Although we only just met this year I feel safe in saying you are my friend, & I'm yours. We made it thru Time to Speak and Keys Together. Although Brockman was a B— — — (I almost lost my religion) you made that class much more bearable & endurable. And we had lots of fun in gym w/ mr. Bell and volleyball (one day you'll get a scholarship). I'm glad I met you and I'm glad I know your family you are such nice people. Stay as you are and you'll go far, and succeed in future endeavors. I'm proud to be the class of 82 with you.

The only real mark I have left on the school was by carving R.F. on my desk. — Richard Finer The river flows as our lives move through its many stages into eternal darkness on the edge of town; remember all men were born to run in Asbury Park and shuffle along E street. — Marc Fisher Quiet, goddammit, quiet. I hate noise. — Angie Fluellen We don't care how fine their school is, or the prestige they enjoy; all we need to make us drool is what is the ratio girl to boy. — Lori Foreman. A person who tries but is without success is better off than a person who succeeds without trying. — Robert Frye. A goal is something you must make a reality; a dream is something you carry in your heart forever. — Kathleen Friel. May all your dreams bloom like daisies in the sun, may you always have stars in your eyes, may you not stop running until your road is run, may you always have blue skies. — Melanie Fullman. The road to success is always under construction. — Margie Gati. Your future lies before you like a sheet of fallen snow; be careful how you tread it, for every mark will show. — Erin Gehler The dome of thought, the palace of the soul. — Susan Gervees. Tout vient a l'homme que attends; everything comes to he that waits. — Natlie Graham Our similarities brought us together, our differences will lead us apart. — Geneene Grayson No problem is so big that that it cannot be solved by a little thought, a large piece of carrot cake, and a glass of milk. — Jill Greenburg I had dwelt as a stranger in a strange land, and on the day I awoke an educated man, I knew I was at home among friends I'd soon be leaving. — Alex Guest. I'm closer to believing you've given me inspiration. — Brian Hageman. Now is the time to begin and search day by day to find out the true meaning of life. — Lisa Hagenauer. Not like Dante discovering a commedia upon the slopes of heaven, I would paint a different kind of Paradise in which the people would live naked. Holly Hamilton The total process by which the relatively unformed human organism becomes the person, able to respond to and function with other human beings is called socialization. — Bobbie Harden. I regret I have not yet begun to fight, but I'll try again till I get it right. — Howard Haskins It's better not to think that when the wind blows in the white curtains it's the real thing. — Leslie Hawes. Throughout the years school has been okay, but this year has been the worst. — Greg Hawkins If God meant for people to go nude they would have been born that way — Stan Hazen What lies beyond you and what lies before you are trying matters compared to what lies within you — Laura Healey. We have spent six years here dreaming of the future. The time has come to go and make those dreams come true. — Jane Heiman. Lighten up while you still can, don't even try to understand, just find a place to make your stand, and take it easy — Sandra Heimberg. Six years are finally over. I'll miss you, Walnut. — Kevin Henderson Wake me up when it's over. — Gary Hill. A Star shines on the hour of our meeting. — Darrel Hitson. If you have put castles in the air, your work need not be lost; that is where they should be. Now put the foundations under them. — Melissa Hoel Don't try to tame me; I was born chained and I just broke free. — See you later, aligator. — Elizabeth Hodge. And this our life, exempt from public haunt, find tongues in trees, books in the running brooks, sermons in stones, and good in everything. — Jody Holwadel. Now it's clear to me; seniors have to party. Everything else is optional. — Jim Hutchinson. Thanks for the memories and the making of the things to come. — Samuel Ison. We will stumble upon many obstacles down the road of life. Moreover we will succumb to them or defeat and avoid them altogether. — William Jackson. Walnut Hills has educated me and nourished me with all things that are necessary for success in the world outside of these hallowed halls. Thanks, you did a good darn job, because I am ready to take on anything. — Ingrid Jarmon. Many people say your high school years are the best in your life. After six years in Walnut Hills I hope they're wrong. — Michael Jeffrey You can call me Mark, or you can call me Sam, but please call me David. — David Jenike In helping others we shall help ourselves, for whatever good we give ours completes the circle and comes back to us. — Antionette Jenkins.

Life is like a hall pass: you play with it, throw it around, and wonder what the hell it is. — Adrienne Johnson. Everything is coming up roses. — Cheryl Johnson. If education is the key to success, then most people would rather pick the lock. — Renwick Jones. It is the chiefest point of happiness that a man is willing to be what he is. — Tami Kamin. Take the local exchange to the express, don't get off till you meet success. — Suzanne Kaplan. Golden rule: never throw vanilla milkshakes out of the car windows . . . unless you've got a fast car. — Harry Kapouralis. Reach high, for stars lay hidden in your soul. Dream deep for every dream precedes the goal. — Linda Kerdoff. Life seems to be of the greatest importance, especially when it related to the end of life. — Tracey King. You see things as they are; and you ask "why"/ But I dream things that never were, and I ask "why not?" — Debbie Kittle. Everybody knows this is nowhere. — Ellen Knight. Today is the tomorrow that you dreamed about yesterday. — Leslie Kohler. You are not given a wish without the ability to make it come true. — Jenny Kramer. Do not delay; the golden moments fly. — Ann Marie Kreft. The Lizard King lives. — Jane Kunezel. A grade worth having is a grade worth cheating for. — Jackie Larkin. To all my friends, thanks. I couldn't have made it without you. — Sheila Larkin. We have grown so much together that it hurts me to think we might ever grow apart. — Karen Laurens. The only thing that really counts is loving and knowing that you are loved. — Jon Lee To dream of the person you would like to be is just to waste the person that you are. — Yvette Lett. Everytime you make ends meet, someone moves the ends. — Barry Levy. Never a lip is curved in pain that can't be kissed into smiles again. — Laurel Levy. No one can be exactly like me. Sometimes even I have trouble doing it. — Jeanine Lewis. The mind is an iceberg — it floats with only one seventh of its bulk above surface. — Joey Liner. There are faces I remember from the places in the past. Sometimes I laugh I cry and I can't remember why, but I love those good times gone by. — Julie Lowenstein Today is yesterday's tomorrow. — Craig Luke. School is the vehicle for learning, but you may want to walk. — David Mack. The journey down the endless path has ended. — Kay Mahne. If God be for us, who can be against us? — Carey Martin. It always seems that the best times, the times we love, the times we share and appreciate, are the times that pass the quickest! — Keith Martin. I would love to change the world, but I don't know what to do so I'll leave it up to you. — Doug May. To live in hearts we left behind is not to die. — Joann May. The years have flown by. Here we go. I'm gone — adios. — Robin Mayfield. Don't say "good-bye", just say "until we meet again". — Ed McAllister. Now I know you believe you understand what you think I said, but I am not sure you realize that what you heard is not what I meant. — Rodney McAnich. It was all worth it. — Dan McKinney. Now that another chapter of our lives nears its end, we hate the place we have come to know as a friend. — as life flows swiftly by like a stream, we will soon be left with only memories of Walnut Hills High. — Jeffrey McAnn. Never play leapfrog with a unicorn. — Shannon McDaniel We're just lost souls swimming in a fishbowl, year after year. — Patricia Merz. He only took tips. — Jim Monahan. Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; genius will not; education alone will not; persistence and determination alone are omnipotent. — Jill Mooreman. Bruce and the Sir Johns DOME-inate. — Doug Moore. Well, I've finally finished the pretty task. Now its on to bigger and better things; college and knowledge of what its like to be broke. — Vanessa Moore. Only you can make today's dreams, tomorrow's realities. — Lisa Murphy. Darth Vader lives forever. — Lisa Myers. They made their choices and they'll never know what it means to steal to, to cheat, to lie; what its like to live and die, to prove it all night. — Thomas Newbold. Good friendships are like sunshine. — Barb Nocheck. Don't establish your life on dreams, but construct your dreams on life. — Benita Parker And we have just begun watching the river run, listening and learning and yearning to run, river, run. — Alice Passer. Hey, Mom and Dad, it looks like I'm going to make it. — Dan Penn. Reality is feeling what you see. Fantasy is seeing what you feel; the difference is what side of the mirror you look through — John Prentiss. What is a . . .? Oh! I understand — Sandra Quinones. Always put real thought into what you do and life will be greatly enhanced — Marshall Reaney In every life there is a journey to freedom — Jennifer Reines. I hate senior quotes — Faithful Rem typist.

IN MEMORY OF
KAME MATSUDO
(1962-1980)

In Memory of Kame Matsudo
Written by Sharon Cook 12-9-80

My tears and the rain become one.
I weep and the willows weep with me.
The friendly stream smiles
And carries my tears away.

The clouds come over us,
Accentuating the separation
Between this world
And the world beyond.

But there is a spot of sun,
God reaching to any who will accept.

What a dismal prison
This world would be
If there were not a sure passage
To a place of light, peace, and love.

In Memory of Kame Matsudo
Written by Sharon Cook 10-7-80

We sang of death,
How could we know
You were on its threshold?

Mysteries we've contemplated,
Thoughts we've shared,
But you have the answers.

Floating in crystal blue
Below, above, around
Peaceful and FREE.

You have changed and expanded,
Dwelling in us and Beyond us.

Well Calvin—

This has been one interesting year. First we had to suffer through a boring 4 quarters with that idiot Mr Foreman. Then we went through 4 quarters with that great teacher Mr Shuttleworth. Even though you didn't say too much in these classes I take it you were smart. You are a very special person who deserves all the best. Good luck over the summer and in everything you do. Sincerely,

Ken Ross c/o 82 P.S Next year we're seniors.

Calvin,

To the person that kept me awake during gym class. Although it seemed that I hated the class, I really didn't mind it at all. Well, you've been a good friend these past 4 years and I wish you much luck in the future.

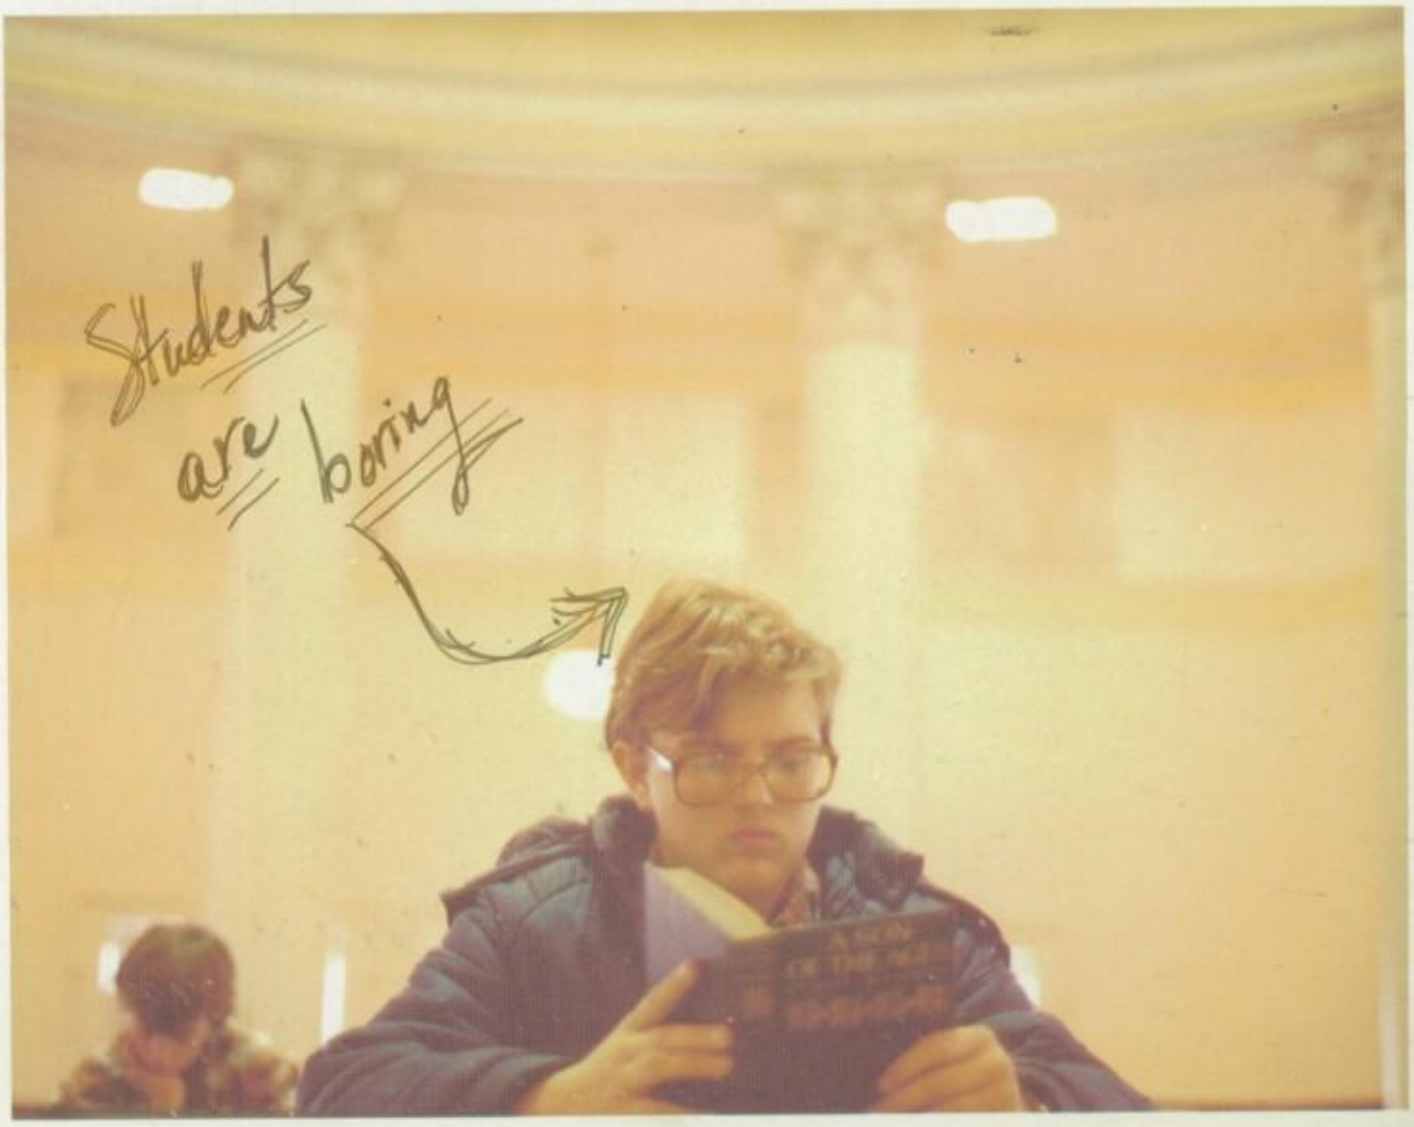
Walnut Hills is multi-faceted. Students can participate in golf tournaments, in Student Congress, in jazz concerts, in plays, in art shows, in chess tournaments and countless other events. But, above all, Walnut Hills is an academic institution. Our teachers represent some of the most qualified and most capable in this area. Our students are traditionally among the top in the city. Students attend Walnut for many reasons; ultimately we are here to learn and to improve our minds.



To Colvin,

Oh Calvin what can I say besides you're a warm loving person. It's been a pleasure knowing you all of these years. Our mutual hatred of Carol Stuckey just makes me like you all the more. This year you really shocked me telling me about your heated romances. I'm just so jealous. I been saving myself for penetration by you for Oh! so long. You traitor, You have just betrayed me and you know what I mean. This school has really been a bummer but you made me like it somewhat more. We must party together Sometimes cause I party with almost all my close friends. I'm surprised that we both made it through Bridemans class. That transexual bitch. I'm so sorry Calvin but I just don't know if I can take up the rest of this page you foul smelling enema bag. Lurch ya the best, party hardy + Rock + ROLL.
